FOREWORD BY ROTHMANS OF PALL MALL

The Rothmans Football Yearbook has now become an established part of the soccer scene. We are pleased, and not a little awed, by the fact that in two years the book has achieved a readership running into hundreds of thousands of football fans.

This is the third edition of the Yearbook, which is rated by the experts as the most comprehensive reference work on the world's most popular sport. The latest edition, like the previous ones, has been extensively revised, for everyone connected with the book is determined that it should maintain its reputation as the most important and up-to-date collection of soccer facts available.

For instance, readers will find that much more attention has been paid to the European and International aspects of the game. There is also an expanded section on Scottish League football.

So we have another new Rothmans Football Yearbook for 1972–73. Readers have not been slow in telling us what new features they would like to see and we have tried to include as many as possible.

Rothmans of Pall Mall is a company closely associated with all forms of sport and operates all round the world, so we are pleased to be associated with one sport that is genuinely a world-wide one.

We hope that this latest edition of the Yearbook will give as much pleasure to football fans as previous editions. Effectively, it is a history of the game that will evoke memories of triumphs and set-backs of a sport that has enthralled many millions since they first got down to writing the rules of soccer at Cambridge University back in 1846.

COMPILERS

Leslie Vernon and Jack Rollin

We, the compilers of the Rothmans Football Yearbook 1972–73, have been acutely conscious of the tremendous impact made by previous editions. These books have given immense pleasure to the general public and have been of daily use to many enthusiasts, connoisseurs, working journalists and TV commentators.

This success carries with it the obligation to improve the content and lay-out of any subsequent editions. We also realised that to compile such a vast amount of detailed information concerning Association Football requires team work and we have utilised the specialised knowledge of several of our colleagues, whose contributions have proved invaluable.

One of the new features introduced has been the complete results, scorers and line-ups of the international teams of Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales since the war. This followed on last year's inclusion of the England teams in a similar form.

We have enlarged our European section because an intimate knowledge of the domestic football of the U.E.F.A. member countries should be of interest to readers whenever a foreign team meets a British club in one of the major European cup competitions.

Feature articles introduce each section spotlighting the current problems concerning that particular aspect of the game, as well as explaining any items of interest.

We felt, too, that there was a need for re-planning the lay-out of the book putting the various sections into a more logical order.

For instance, when dealing with English and Scottish domestic football we followed a League—F.A. Cup— Football League Cup sequence so that the reader might find the required statistical information as quickly as possible.

In the compilation of the book we received a great deal of help from various organisations but we would like to express our special thanks to Mike McNamara of the Football Association, Bob Baldwin of the Football League and Tom Maule of the Scottish League for their efforts in answering queries and always being available to settle problems arising.

At the same time we owe a great deal of gratitude to those readers whose helpful suggestions have contributed to the book. Unfortunately it has been quite impossible to answer all the letters individually and some of the ideas although interesting were simply not practical – and indeed would have needed a book twice this size to accommodate them. . . .

But in any case, several of the editorial suggestions have been incorporated in the book and others will be given the most serious consideration for future editions.

We were impressed by the various forms of statistical information collected purely as a hobby by some of our readers and we would like to thank them most sincerely for their kind offers of assistance. Perhaps they will be gratified to see that their observations were carefully checked and indeed as a result we were able to correct some small errors.

A Mr Paton, for instance, pointed out that one of his relations who appeared for Bolton Wanderers in the 1893–94 F.A. Cup Final, spelt his name with one 't' and not two as appeared in last year's edition.

We would like to emphasise that while the year mentioned in the Home International results refers to the actual date, the international appearances, in order to save space, refer to the year in which the season's football ended. International appearances are listed in accordance with Football Association statistics.

We hope this book, by recording the history of Association Football, will contribute even more to the popularity of the game.

Jack Rollin

Golden Boots Award

The third year of the Rothmans Golden Boots Award produced another excellent cross-section of opinion from the panel on the best team plus a substitute in Great Britain during the 1971–72 season.

It was left to the discretion of the voters what actual formation their team took either in a 4-3-3 or 4-2-4 formation.

One player received the full 22 votes, Gordon Banks who had earlier been the choice of the Football Writers Association as the Footballer of the Year. Terry Cooper who had the misfortune to break a leg late in the season and Martin Chivers top scorer among First Division players in senior competitive matches came next with 20 votes each.

Here is the full panel who chose the team:
Albert Barham (Guardian), Peter Batt (Sun), Frank Butler (News of the World), David Coleman (BBC TV), Brian Glanville (Sunday Times), Geoffrey Green (The Times) Desmond Hackett (Daily Express), Jimmy Hill (London Weekend TV), Alan Hoby (Sunday Express), Alan Hughes (Goal), Brian James (Sunday Times), Ken Jones (Daily Mirror), Bernard Joy (Evening Standard), Frank McGhee (Sunday Mirror), Hugh McIlvanney (Observer), David Miller (Sunday Telegraph), Jeff Powell (Daily Mail), Victor Railton (Evening News), Jack Rollin (freelance), Donald Saunders (Daily Telegraph), Maurice Smith (People), and Leslie Vernon (Rothmans Football Yearbook).

Players who have gained a 'hat-trick' of Golden Boots Awards since 1970 have been: Banks, Moore, Cooper and Bremner. The two previous teams were:

1971—Gordon Banks; Chris Lawler, Terry Cooper, Billy Bremner, Frank McLintock, Bobby Moore, George Best, Martin Chivers, Ron Davies, Francis Lee, Martin Peters.

In addition the panel was asked to nominate their Young Player of the Year. Kevin Keegan won the choice with as many votes as all other entries put together.

Other players who received votes in the Golden Boots Award: Mike England (6), Colin Bell (6), George Best (5), Alan Ball (4), Sandy Jardine (3), Colin Todd (3), Norman Hunter (3), Archie Gemmill (3), Alan Hudson (2), David Hay (2), Bobby Murdoch (2), George Graham (2), Peter Lorimer (2), Derek Dougan (2), Rodney Marsh (2), Kenny Dalglish (2), Mike Channon (2), Chris Lawler, Frank McLintock, Larry Lloyd, John Hollins, George Armstrong, Ian Moore, Terry Conroy, Denis Law, Malcom Macdonald and John O'Hare (1 each). Peter Simpson (5) was the most voted for substitute.

Additional votes for the Young Player of the Year: Trevor Francis (4), Kenny Dalglish (3), Leighton James, Charlie George, Malcolm Macdonald and Colin Todd (1 each).

ROTHMANS
GOLDEN BOOTS AWARD

Gordon Banks (Stoke City and England)
In a season during which he consistently matintained his rating as England's, and arguably the world's, number one goalkeeper, Gordon Banks had the extra satisfaction of at last earning some well-merited success in club football. Stoke C. won their first trophy, the League Cup at Wembley, and Banks' inspiring performances, particularly in the semi-final against West Ham, exerted a tremendous influence, particularly when the pressure was at its most intense. His award, as Footballer of the Year, for the season was fitting for a man whose name has almost become the definition of goalkeeping technique. His reflexes and general agility show no signs of decline whilst his positioning sharpened by a wealth of experience, is exceptional. But perhaps his greatest quality is the way he commands his area with an authority that makes life much easier for the men in front of him.

Paul Madeley (Leeds United and England)
A major success as a right-sided defensive midfield player for England in Switzerland, totally reliable at left-back in the Leeds United side that beat Arsenal in the Cup Final, then staking a forceful claim to become England's regular right-back, demonstrates how Paul Madeley has developed into an all-round player of international worth.

At six foot and thirteen stone he appears larger than the mould for the classical full-back, but, impressively muscular, he turns quickly for his size. Moving forward Madeley's powerful running is even more eye-catching. His control again belies his size and he has fitted smoothly alongside Giles and Bremner when Don Revie has required him to play in midfield.

Roy McFarland (Derby County and England)
Roy McFarland becomes the first Englishman to wear the Golden Boots number five shirt. This is fitting reward to a player who had, by the end of the season, gone along way towards solving a problem position for England since the decline of Jack Charlton and Brian Labone. As well as establishing himself as an international, McFarland played a memorable role in Derby County's League Championship success. A bargain signing from Tranmere Rovers, only seduced to the Baseball Ground by some noctunal persuasiveness from Brian Clough, McFarland, with Colin Todd, cemented one of the tightest defences in the country.

His international development has been hindered by injury, often a nagging groin complaint, and he missed the crucial first leg of the European Championship quarter-final. Essentially a footballing centre-half, particularly strong on his left side, McFarland has the dual ability to destroy and construct.

Bobby Moore (West Ham United and England)
For Bobby Moore the 1971–72 season – a year in which he was his usual icily consistent self – was marred by two team frustrations. After four games West Ham, desperately seeking to recapture the glories of the middle sixties, failed to beat Stoke and Banks in the League Cup semi-finals. Then with Moore unhappy at centre-half in the disastrous first leg, England fell to West Germany.

But despite the challenge of the youthful Todd and the experienced Hunter, Moore remained supreme in his role as second centre-back. A total master of the skill of marking space, his clinical covering and ability to spot danger before anyone else makes it irrelevant that he is not the quickest mover in the world. His intelligence makes it rare that he Has to hurry!

Terry Cooper (Leeds United and England)
The all-England defence is completed by a player whose own season ended in tragedy – carried from the Victoria Ground Stoke on a stretcher with a broken leg. Perhaps his injury just swayed the odds against Leeds completing the double; certainly his country missed the flair of the best attacking full-back in the world.

Ironically and sadly, Cooper was at the peak of his form as Leeds trounced a succession of First Division opponents. Because most teams came to Elland Road packed with midfield players and with few out and out strikers, Don Revie gave Cooper the freedom to come forward out of the back line, not only as an overlapping full-back, but all over the park. Blessed with the pace and intricacy that brought him into the game as a winger and the ability to read the game well enough to move forward to the right place at the right time, Cooper's attacking panache always caught the eye.

Billy Bremner (Leeds United and Scotland)
After two seasons of almost total frustration in domestic competition, Leeds United's F.A. Cup win must have come as a considerable relief to their captain Billy Bremner. One of the games greatest competitors and combative characters, Bremner must have been irked more than most as honours slipped from his team's grasp.

As a midfield player his competitiveness lifts him above the average. He tackles twice his weight to win the ball and he has all the traditional ball skills of little Scottish footballers to use it when it is his. His lack of inches has proved no handicap to him in the box, and a knack of knocking in important goals encourages Leeds to throw him forward, particularly when things are not going well.

Johnny Giles (Leeds United and Eire)
In 1963, Leeds United signed Johnny Giles, an inconsistent right-winger, from Manchester United for £37,500. Since taking over from Bobby Collins as a creative midfield player two years later, Giles has proved himself perhaps the bargain of the sixties. Blending his cool skills with the passionate committment of Bremner, Leeds are rarely surpassed in the middle of the field.

Last season Giles struck a new peak. He was third in the poll for Footballer of the Year. Perhaps his greatest assest is vision, the ability to see and note what is going on all around him even in the tightest situation. Allied to this he has the two-footed talent to transfer the ball to the next point of attack – whether it be ten or forty yards away – with unnerving accuracy.

Giles is especially adept at protecting himself from the would-be destroyers of his arts – an early lesson he learned from Bobby Collins.

Jimmy Johnstone (Celtic and Scotland)
After another fine season for Celtic in domestic and European competition Jimmy Johnstone is recalled to the Golden Boots team after missing out in 1971. Built from the mould of the traditional Scottish winger, the flame-haired 'wee-man' of Celtic Park was back to his intricate best last season.

He tortured Hibernian to a desperate defeat in the Scottish Cup Final, destroying first the left flank of their defence and then moving inside to do more damage. With a low centre of gravity, Johnstone can change direction at will and he can attack defenders on both sides. Sometimes, particularly in a Scotland jersey, he seems to lose his way, to disappear from the game inside his own twistings and turnings. But, on form, he is unstoppable.

Martin Chivers (Tottenham Hotspur and England)
Retaining the place he won in the Golden Boots side last year, Martin Chivers, continued the astounding leap forward he made that season. Although continual demands were made on his strong frame and consistent goalscoring powers – he played over 70 senior games – Chivers matintained the form that a dreadful knee injury appeared to have taken from him.

For England he was more impressive earlier in the season. In Basle he was the best forward on the field, unsettling the Swiss with his strong running with the ball; he scored one goal and forced the own-goal winner. In Greece, too, he was convincing and netted inevitably again. For Spurs his most significant moments came at the season's end. In the first leg of the U.E.F.A. Cup Final, away at Wolverhampton, he played virtually as a one-man forward line.

But he grabbed the two goals that virtually won his club the trophy. Despite the sort of finishing power that makes him the country's leading scorer, Chivers remains an enigma, sometimes looking reluctant to use his immense physique.

Francis Lee (Manchester City and England)

Like Chivers, Frannie Lee retains his place in the Golden Boots side, although he has been switched to the more central role he has occupied so successfully for his club from an attacking flank player. Although his season ended on a sad note, losing his England place through physical exhaustion, Lee had a great year.

Although Manchester City just failed to lift the League Championship, they played some of the First Divisions's most exciting football, and Lee's aggressive front play led the way. He scored 33 League goals, a record 13 of them coming from the penalty spot. Many of these came when his penetratingly direct assults into the penalty area were interrupted by the leg of a desperate defender. His swaggering confidence in attacking situations make him a difficult attacker to counteract. Given the slightest sight of the goal, he will go at the defence.

Eddie Gray (Leeds United and Scotland)

Eddie Gray's happy return to First Division football after a puzzling and aggravating shoulder injury was one of the most pleasant features of the 1971–72 season. Pleasant that is for Leeds United and any connoisseurs of pedigree football, not so pleasant for the Football League defenders who had to try to stop one of the most gifted young forwards in the game.

With Cooper and Hunter, Gray completes a naturally left-sided trio, a factor that makes Leeds such a superbly blanced team. Employed either in midfield or further forward on the left-hand side – a position from which he dominated the 1970 Cup Final – Gray's silky dribbling skills can open up the most packed penalty areas. Sometimes he fails through over-elaboration, sometimes his own finishing lets him down.

Peter Simpson (Arsenal)

Last year the substitute spot went to an Arsenal player, Peter Storey, and this year his colleague Peter Simpson wins the place. Like Storey, Simpson is a versatile player. In his early years at Highbury he played in eight different positions. But under the guidance of the former Arsenal coach, Don Howe, he settled into the back four on the left hand side of the centre-half. In the double season his consistency was not so apparent in a complete team at the height of their capabilities. But this season as the Gunners suffered the expected reaction from their triumphs, his thorough reliability has stood out.

A quiet man, Simpson's only failing is an apparent lack of conviction in his own ability. But at Highbury he is rated the most skilful member of the staff. A marvellous reader of the game, he is a tight defender and constructive attacker.

Kevin Keegan (Liverpool)

Kevin Keegan, a close-season signing from Scunthorpe United, exploded in a flash of red at Anfield on the first day of the 1971–72 season. From the moment he scored against Nottingham Forest on that day, he became the new idol of the Kop and throughout a punishing season he has never fallen from grace.

Only five foot eight inches he took on the mantle of striker in a side that often struggled for goals and although never prolific he scored steadily. Brave and amazingly good in the air, Keegan soon earned the respect of Sir Alf Ramsey and consequent caps at Under 23-level. The managers voted him the most promising newcomer of the season, and he earned the Golden Boots award above the claims of Trevor Francis, Kenny Dalglish, Malcolm Macdonald, Leighton James and Charlie George.

Pressures of To-day's Football

by Brian James

The 1971–72 season might be remembered by history as that which began with overdue attempts to protect players from each other; and ended with a evidence of a clear need to protect players from themselves. It cannot be often that the incidents of football, the matches and the performances of individuals are so over-shadowed by the larger issues of the game.

The first month of the season was made dramatic by a secretly-taken decision of the Football League to clamp down on discipline and, in particular, the notorious tackle from the back that for years had set British football aside from all other. As the statistics of players booked and ordered off mounted the world could have been forgiven for believing that British players had gone suddenly mad, whereas the truth was that British football was belatedly finding its sanity. We shall see later the consequences of their campaign.

But it was the final month of the season that the years may show was the most significant, a month in which first one voice, then another, was heard in protest about the strains – physical and mental – that the domestic and international fixture schedules were placing on the country's better players.

Dr Brian Curtin, of Tottenham Hotspur, may have started it by forecasting that the top players would be 'burnt out' by the time they were 28. Arsenal manager Bertie Mee followed up by declaring that the issue was 'the most important subject that had arisen in the game for years. We are ruining our players with what we are demanding of them'.

Suddenly from every quarter similar doubts and fears were expressed. Nor was the evidence merely verbal. Francis Lee of Manchester City was taken, exhausted, to hospital. Alan Mullery of Spurs declared himself out of England's future after a tired, tense national team had been eliminated from the European Championship by West Germany. Partially at the request of the senior players, an England tour was then cancelled; Hudson of Chelsea, Todd of Derby, both declined chances to tour with Sir Alf Ramsey and Young England. The word 'fatigue' was on their lips, too. It is only slight exaggeration to suggest that the mood below the stands was close to mutiny.

No man was closer to the problem than Dr Neil Phillips, honorary medical officer to the F.A. He is in no doubt of the seriousness of the situation. 'My view is that, as medical people, we just don't know enough about the strains and stresses that we are putting on our elite of players, the stars who are important to the top ten club sides in the country and the same people on whom the burdens fall in international football. But we ought to be doing everything we can to find out.

'Playing Saturday, Wednesday, Saturday . . . week in and week out, year after year, in a highly competitive atmosphere at a high level of physical commitment can impose appalling strains. Take the physical side first: What bothers me is that players get no chance to recover from minor injuries, we (that is the clubs) are forced to send them out half-recovered, straight off the treatment table. And chronic conditions can develop from small injuries that, in another era, would have been cured once and for all with proper treatment and rest. Soft-tissues injuries, bruises, need 48 hours complete rest before the muscle should be asked to function again. Present-day stars simply don't get the chance and permanently-damaged muscles may be the end result.

'We have already seen some evidence of this in the long-standing pelvic disorders suffered by men like Alan Ball, Alan Mullery and Bob McNab. These conditions started with minor groin strains that were not properly rested; I am afraid that other chronic conditions of this sort may soon start to show. We must be alert for the signs.

'Yet even this is not the main problem. The emotional and mental effects on players of playing to the schedules of today, may well be a more serious danger. Players are competitive – they have to be – and so they will know the extremes of elation and disappointment. The list of pressures on them is endless. They exert pressures on themselves because of their own ambitions. Money, the bonuses they play for that can make all the difference to their standard of living, add to that weight. Then, team mates put pressures on them, for football is a team game and one man's failure may be a team's disaster. The coaches and managers put pressure on them, for the success of the bosses is tied to the players' performance. The directors, the crowds, even their own families, all exert pressures for their own reasons on the player. Everyone wants success for his or her team – but the buck stops with the player.

'To know the total weight of such tensions the ordinary man in the street should ask himself how he would feel if he were promoted in his job, or how he would feel if he were suddenly sacked. Players, in effect, know exactly these extremes – every three days of their lives . . . getting promotion . . . getting sacked . . . Just think of it.

'Most men could withstand such strains for a short period, perhaps a whole year. But when it becomes part of the pattern of life, year after year, the burden becomes frightening. What worries me most, however, is the way in which players voluntarily add to these pressures by their commercial interests outside the game. In addition to everything else they get themselves tied up in businesses – concerned about contracts, schedules, royalties, meetings, fees, public appearances and so on. The problem of business alone can send small shopkeepers running to their doctors, yet players let themselves in for precisely similar worries on top of everything else on their minds.

'I have noticed the change in top players over the past few years, a sort of disenchantment with the game. A lack of sparkle. One finds oneself looking around a dressing room like an officer looking at his men in the trenches in the First World War – which ones will crack when the shelling starts, and which will still have the nerve left to go over the top?

'Worry, for some of these players, has become a way of life. That can't be right and eventually some of them, those with the weakest personalities, will crack. I am not saying they'll go loony, but they will reach a point at which they can't go on. They will get into a state of acute anxiety, even a mild nervous collapse, in which they will become useless. We have not been confronted with this problem long enough to have all the answers, but we had better start looking for them now.

'We may well get to the state when football has to protect these top players from themselves; stop asking them to play the number of games we now demand. And then perhaps the clubs will have to prevent them making life harder by being involved in business interests while they are still playing.'

In the light of that gloomy appraisal most of what happened in the year seems insignificant, yet the League's campaign for fairer football still deserves attention. It began with the secret briefing of referees on the first Sunday of the season – when specific instructions about specific types of misconduct were laid down. The immediate effects were alarming, with players and clubs protesting they had not been consulted, or even warned, before the axe fell. Cautions ran into dozens, then hundreds, as players discovered that offences that had become part of the pattern of their game were now banned absolutely.

Yet, slowly but certainly, footballers came to terms with the new code, and it is impossible to doubt that a saner, more just, style of football began to evolve. Sadly, the referees' zeal was not matched by uniformity in the disciplinary committees and, after several famous miscreants had escaped the consequences of their conduct, players found it well worth their while to appeal constantly to the committees against the decision made in the field. (By January, 139 appeals against cautions had been registered, compared with perhaps 10 in a normal full year!) Unsurprisingly, the referees' enthusiasm abated as their authority was undermined, and even the League were not pretending that more than 75 per cent of officials were obeying the new code by the season's end.

This apparent contrast in attitude between the League and F.A. led to more formal conflict when the League brought out its own plans to take over disciplinary matters concerning their own employees, and to begin a 'points' system for a scale of set punishments for a list of set crimes. The F.A. were unenthusiastic about this idea, and the Government's insistence that football should rule according to the spirit of the Industrial Relations Act (providing opportunity for appeals for penalised workers) added a further complication. Yet the signs are that as a result of meetings this summer, a new system for maintaining order in football would emerge – and the League's determination to redress the balance between the skilled and the merely strong will be perpetuated for the unarguable good of the British game.

Indeed, despite the fuss about its launching and the doubts about the way it finally drifted, the League's campaign had just a few certain and admirable consequences, perhaps best instanced by the case of George Eastham. Eastham, the former Arsenal and England forward whose skill was as abundant as his inability to express it consistently among bigger, tougher men was evident, had left Stoke to play in South Africa, apparently finished with an English game he had illuminated but could not dominate.

The signs that football was at last placing greater value on skill, and was at last prepared to protect those who possessed it, prompted Stoke manager Tony Waddington to recall Eastham. Waddington's judgement and hope were justified as Stoke – a club that had won nothing in over 100 years of existence – played through to win finally the League Cup. To reach Wembley they had to play a marathon set of four matches with the equally skilled West Ham. Each of the games was fine in itself – taken as a series they were superb, with a Gordon Banks save from Hurst's penalty and a spell in goal by Bobby Moore mere incidental highlights.

But it was the climax at Wembley with Eastham finally striking the goal which beat Chelsea that most of us saw as a significant omen of improving times. Stoke might even have made it a double, for it took an aberrational decision by a linesman to defeat them when confronted with Arsenal's power in an F.A. Cup semi-final replay at Everton. Arsenal, despite the influential presence of Alan Ball (one of the £200,000 signings who made this, too, a year of significant inflation in the transfer market), did not long survive this one piece of luck their cool football needed: at Wembley they were out-run and finally overcome by Leeds United who thus took their first F.A. Cup in the competition's Centenary Year.

But both these cup campaigns, like ALL cup campaigns, came as drama-on-the-day chapters in the longer-running story of the chase for the League championship. There have been few more erratically begun, more tautly-finished, campaigns than that of 1971–72, and fewer deserving of a fairer climax than it was eventually to receive.

For the first weeks, football could talk of nothing but the start made by Sheffield United, promoted from Division Two, and by their own manager's admission a side of players 'picked up in Woolworth rather than Harrods'. United caught London's attention by taking on and beating the double-holders, Arsenal, on their own ground, and then proceeded to barnstorm around the country adding scalps. They played bright and aggressive football in those starting weeks, but the championship is for marathon men, not sprinters, and by early winter the drive had gone and football looked elsewhere for the champions.

They seemed to have been found at first at Manchester United, where Frank O'Farrell, a new manager, had given a famous team a new impetus. A revived Denis Law, a vibrantly effective George Best, scored goal after improbable goal, and the rest of the United pack fought to protect those leads. O'Farrell seemed strangely cool about the prospects and when, in December, Best's form evaporated that pessimism was seen to be justified. Gradually an eight-point lead was eroded and by January it was seen that a better-balanced team must emerge to take the title.

By late spring four contenders had survived – Leeds U., Liverpool, Manchester C. and Derby Co., and with Wolverhampton W. and Arsenal fading slowly from contention, this quartet went stride for stride into the last month and into the tightest finish the League championship has ever known. Every Saturday, every mid-week round of fixtures, seemed to give first one, then another, the edge; each of many improbable results then followed to confound predictions.

Manchester C. were the first to drop out, beaten by Ipswich T. Yet on Cup Final day, once by tradition the last day of the season, three teams could still take the title: Derby Co., who led the League table with their programme completed. Liverpool, who had one match left at Highbury and Leeds U. Leeds who had played magnificently to overcome the handicap of playing the first eight matches away from home (the result of an F.A. ban on their ground because of crowd disorder), were clear favourites in Final week. And even the decision of the League – harsh, unexplained and perhaps inexplicable – that Leeds U. must play their final match, at Wolves, 48 hours after the Cup Final, seemed merely to add one more unfair obstacle to a team that had overcome so much.

In the event it was one obstacle too many. Leeds U., despite abandoning all celebration of their F.A. Cup victory and driving north within the hour to prepare for Molineux on Monday, were beaten by Wolves, the refusal of at least one certain penalty adding injustice to injury. The title, and the 'double', had gone. Liverpool's chance vanished on that same night – at Highbury they found Arsenal inflamed rather than dejected by Wembley defeat and so could not muster the win that would have taken them to the top.

So it was that the Derby Co. players, actually out of the country on holiday in Spain, heard themselves declared champions in their absence. Derby's bright football did not make them undeserving of the honour, yet the manner of victory remains somehow unsatisfying.

Great football honours, one feels, should be taken on the field on the day, with the winners coming off bathed in sweat and jubilation to have their feat acknowledged by the people who were there when it came; not like hammer-throwers who make their throw and retire to a bench to wait and discover whether rivals can improve on the score. None of this is Derby's fault (indeed they could argue that they DID win their title in face-to-face combat by beating Leeds a little earlier). Rather is it the fault of a too-crowded fixture list, the endless proliferation of meaningless extra competitions, which removes all elasticity from the season and almost guarantees an untidy, anti-climatic, end. But it does explain why Derby Co.'s first championship should have been greeted with only vague appreciation.

The First Division contest, of course, was not all about winning. A group of clubs found it only too easy to keep losing, among them C. Palace who, despite an extraordinary week of transfers (when they sold Kember and Birchenall for £270,000 and bought five reinforcements with the proceeds), found eventual safety only very late in the season. Survival in the First Division was eventually denied to Huddersfield, a worthy, hard-working team who lacked only the time to acquire polish, and Nottingham F. whose sale of their star Ian Storey-Moore to Manchester U. was seen by some as a gesture of surrender to the impending fate.

Similar criticism was made of Q.P.R. who allowed Rodney Marsh to join Manchester C. for another £200,000-plus when they apparently had a fine chance of promotion. Sting went out of that accusation when Q.P.R., minus Marsh, continued to pick up points at an even faster rate than before, and when Manchester C., with Marsh, dropped the few fatal points that cost them a title. The vacant First Division places went, finally, to Norwich C., promoted for the first time as a reward for a season-long steadiness, and to Birmingham C., who recovered bravely from an F.A. Cup semi-final trouncing by Leeds U., to inch ahead of Millwall and Q.P.R.

Birmingham C. can be said to have had no other choice than to succeed, for the effect of failure would have been disastrous in a city already wavering towards total commitment to their rivals Aston Villa. Villa, gaining staggering support from the fans, came bursting out of the Third Division with an authority that left observers wondering only how they had got themselves down there in the first place. Brighton out-lasted Bournemouth in a south-coast chase to keep Villa company.

Perhaps the most notable performances of the lower divisions were those of Brentford, who used a tiny squad to gain promotion from Division Four, and Wrexham, the poorish Division Three side who ended Cardiff's monopoly of the Welsh Cup – and so gained a back-door place into the European football usually reserved for the giants.

Much else happened in football: the first shock and sadness of Asa Hartford's 'hole in the heart' non-transfer to Leeds U., and his then unconcerned march into the Scottish national team. . . . Mullery's apparent rejection by Tottenham H., and his immediate return to captain them to triumph in the U.E.F.A. Cup (they beat Wolves in the all-English final) . . . the emergence of Kevin Keegan, at Liverpool, as the outstanding 'find' of the season . . . the conflict between clubs over the controversial 'loaning' of players . . . the problems presented to poor clubs by the recommendation of the Wheatley Commission into crowd-safety standards, and the vastly more worrying implication of the Government's decision to make Soccer liable to Value Added Tax . . . and, of course, many, many fine matches, memorable individual displays.

Yet, on balance, it was those first sounds of alarm about the pressure on players that are likely to resound longest from season 1971–72. When George Best flew to Spain in May declaring that he was finished with football, a victim of the game's attendant stresses, the feelings of those he left behind were mixed. Some argued that the game was better off without his tantrums, others that football could scarce afford the loss of one of its few unique talents. But none dare dispute that in Best football had had its clearest warning yet of the need to find a way to protect players from themselves.

Internationally British football ended the season in turmoil. England, having completed the dismissal of teams such as Malta, Greece and Switzerland during the first part of the year, found themselves confronted with West Germany in the quarter-final of the Nations Cup. Remembering Wembley and 1966, remembering Leon and 1970, the pairing was piquant to say the least and many were the column-miles of newsprint expended on the prospects.

In advance the issue seemed clear enough: England would win at Wembley, as of right, but would they win by a sufficiently large margin to guarantee survival in the return in Berlin? There seemed little else to debate. In the event all forecasts missed the point because Germany came to Wembley not merely to defend, but instead attacked England with verve and skill enough to win 3-1. England's lack of a ball-winning midfield player was held to be the reason for defeat, yet this simple solution ignored the greater reality that the Germans were a faster, fitter and infinitely more skilful side.

A great deal of advice was poured out for Sir Alf Ramsey's benefit before the return – advice now not on how to protect an England lead, but rather on how to save a desperate situation. Ramsey, ignoring almost all of it, chose a hardened team of experienced players, and while England never looked capable of recouping what was already lost, played tightly enough to avert further disaster. Even achieving this limited object did not save Sir Alf, and his team, from further abuse, and it was a tight-lipped and resentful squad (minus regulars like Hurst, Lee and Mullery) which came home to prepare for the Home championship.

From the first moment the Home title seemed tailor-made to fit Scotland. The Scots, taken over by Tommy Docherty in mid-season, were already feeling the effects of their new manager's presence and the selection in the squad of some of the younger 'Anglos' seemed to provide a nice contrast with Sir Alf's much-criticised adherence to his tried and trusted regulars.

England started well enough, beating Wales in Cardiff to earn restrained praise, but Scotland disposed of Ireland to keep, at least, abreast. Midweek the picture changed; Ireland went to Wembley and a goal by captain Neill undermined and defeated an England team including newcomers Todd, Currie and Lloyd. The ridicule poured now upon England took predictably little account of the fact that these were precisely the sort of changes many critics had advocated since Berlin. Next night Scotland overcame the Welsh and, with England due at Hampden for their final match, the issue seemed to revolve around Ireland's chances of sharing the title with the Scots.

But England are never more dangerous than when they are down and, after an early spell in which Scotland dominated what little football a foul-littered game permitted, the English discipline sealed up and eventually commanded the match. A goal by the reinstated Alan Ball gave England victory, to share the title with Scotland, and Ireland's draw that evening with Wales saw the tournament slide to anti-climax.

Once again the argument for playing the competition mid-season was raised . . . and once again the depressing evidence of players being too drained to impress was cited. Observing wearisome matches that even century-old rivalries could not fan into life, it became hard to argue that men who have to give so much to their employers should be able to keep something in reserve for their country.

1971 Walter Winterbottom named as head of the committee to enquire into the safety of football crowds.

1971 Leeds U. lost 3-2 to Colchester U. in a Fifth Round F.A. Cup tie; probably the biggest upset in the competition's history.

1971 Arsenal achieve the League and Cup double; only the second team to do it this century and the last occasion ten years before by Tottenham H.

The Arsenal team v Liverpool at Wembley (2-1 a.e.t): Wilson; Rice, McNab, Storey (sub. Kelly 70 mins.), McLintock, Simpson, Armstrong, Graham, Radford, Kennedy, George. Manager: Bertie Mee. Coach: Don Howe.

1971 Chelsea beat Real Madrid in the Cup Winners Cup replay in Athens 2-1 after a 1-1 draw to win the trophy for the first time.

1971 England win the UEFA Youth Tournament in Turkey.

1971 Ajax win the European Cup by beating Panathinaikos 2-0 in the final at Wembley. Record receipts of £183,000 taken. Leeds U. become the last holders of the European Fairs Cup beating Juventus on the away goals rule after a 3-3 draw on aggregate. Fourth consecutive victory for an English club.

1971 Frank McLintock becomes the first Arsenal player to be elected "Footballer of the Year".

1917 F.I.F.A. rejects the idea that in future the European Championship should also be a qualifying tournament for the World Cup.

1971 Blackpool beat Bologna in the Final of the Anglo-Italian tournament.

1971 Tottenham H. sign Ralph Coates from Burnley for an estimated transfer fee of £190,000—a record "straight cash deal" in Great Britain.

Club Section

The Club section has proved to be the most popular feature of the Rothmans Football Yearbook. Consequently, this year we have taken the greatest possible care in giving the maximum amount of information and, at the same time, maintaining a high degree of accuracy. We are eternally grateful to the Club Secretaries, who have been extremely helpful, not only providing information but, also in checking the relevant sections affecting their own clubs. The first page is made up of general historical facts, a ground plan, directions of how to get there, address and telephone numbers. The following apply to the ground plans: CT = Covered Terraces, CS = Covered Stand, TR = Terraces, T = Turnstiles, PR = Press Entrance, OP = Officials, Players Entrance.

The Transfer Fees quoted are all estimated as the transactions are never officially revealed to the public. The Secretary of Ipswich Town Football Club suggested that it might be better to omit transfer fees altogether but, as this aspect of the game is of general interest, we decided to list the record transfer fees paid and received. In some cases, the figures greatly vary from the previously published ones.

The two centre pages contain the complete domestic record of each club during the 1971/72 season. For the Cup competitions, we merely listed the results, as the line-ups appear elsewhere in the Yearbook. As there is no official record for goal-scorers, wherever possible the decisions of the clubs concerned have been taken. Line-ups have been checked and re-checked with the clubs and with the Football League and Scottish League. To simplify visually our 'page 3', we used the figure '12' for a substitute who actually played, and an asterisk for the player who has been replaced. All appearance figures and goals scored refer to Football League matches only, and this principle applies to 'page 4' as well.

'Page 4' lists all the players who have signed professional forms for the club, their previous records with other clubs, height, weight and birthplace. Several readers suggested that we should also include the players' birthdates. Unfortunately, the majority of clubs are unwilling to disclose this information. In connection with well-known internationals, birthdates are published occasionally, but as we are aiming at uniformity and would not like to disregard the wishes of the clubs, it has been decided not to pursue the matter.

Also on this same page it was decided to take out the 's' from the number of substitute appearances, thus making any player who made full as well as substitute appearances 14 + 1 for example. Players not making any full appearances but appearing as substitutes are listed thus: + 1. Also those players not making appearances or scoring goals are given the notation (—) after their names.

Our final 'copy date' for compiling information was, with a few exceptions, 1st June. So, some transfers, changes of colours or personnel between that date and the start of the season, will not have been recorded.

Players given free transfers at the end of the 1971-72 season have been listed at the foot of 'Page 4'.

These notes may help to clarify the principles followed in preparing this important section, which we are sure will be of particular interest to players, officials and supporters alike.

The Football League

The oldest competition of its kind in the world, the Football League was founded in 1888 with 12 clubs. Now it has grown to embrace 92 teams spread out in four divisions and is recognised as the foremost league anywhere.

William McGregor, a Scot associated with the Aston Villa club, was the prime mover in its inception and the original clubs were Accrington, Aston Villa, Blackburn R., Bolton W., Burnley, Derby Co., Everton, Notts. Co., Preston N.E., Stoke C., W.B.A. and Wolverhampton W. Of this number only Accrington are no longer members.

In 1892 a Second Division was formed and by this time the First Division had grown to 16 clubs. Further additions were made in the following years and the series of Test Matches which were used to decide the composition of the divisions were abandoned in 1898–99 when automatic promotion and relegation was introduced for the first time.

By 1919–20 the two divisions had grown to 22 clubs in each. A Third Division was added in 1920 with another 22 clubs and a year later this became the Third Division (Southern Section) as a Northern Section was formed with 20 member clubs.

This, too, was brought up to the strength of the other three divisions when two more teams were added. Not until 1950 was there any further change in the composition of the League and then both Third Division sections were increased to 24 clubs.

In 1958 these regional sections were abolished and a Third Division and Fourth Division formed, with a system of four clubs up and four down to determine promotion and relegation at the end of the season between these two divisions only. Two up and two down applies elsewhere. The bottom four clubs in the League have to seek re-election.

The Football League Cup

When the Football League Cup was introduced in 1960 it did not receive universal approval or the unanimous support of the Football League clubs. But in spite of this unhappy beginning the competition proved itself, overcoming all difficulties and opposition to become a highly popular knock out competition, attracting more than 2,000,000 spectators every year.

Since 1967 the Final has been held at Wembley and from that date the winners, if they were a First Division club, were nominated by the Football League and the F.A. for the former Inter-Cities Fairs Cup. Now they enter the U.E.F.A. Cup.

Before this date the final was decided on a home and away basis with aggregate scores determining the winners.

The Football League Cup was inaugurated at the annual meeting of the Football League in May 1960 when the clubs approved a proposal along these lines by 31 votes to 15. Entry was optional and it was not until 1969-70 that all 92 Football League clubs entered.

The number of entries each season has been as follows: 1960–61, 87; 1961–62, 82; 1962–63, 80; 1963–64, 82; 1964–65, 82; 1965–66, 83; 1966–67, 90; 1967–68, 90; 1968–69, 91; 1969–70, 92; 1970–71, 92; 1971–72, 92.

A Great Season for Scotland

by Alex Cameron Daily Record, Glasgow

Rangers had beaten Moscow Dynamo 3-2, a victory which should have been heralded across Europe for the skill and dash of the Scottish club. But, sadly, was recorded chiefly as the 'Battle of Barcelona' because of the unruly field invasions by wildly over-enthusiastic fans who were finally baton-charged by the Spanish police. It is an episode better forgotten except to say every good supporter of Rangers hopes it will never happen again. And that the club can eventually be given proper credit for winning a major European tournament. The emergence of Rangers as a genuine power in Europe is a good thing for Scottish football.

Since Jock Stein went to Celtic Park the monopoly of success has been almost entirely with them. Not that there is any sign of Celtic's power diminishing. They have won the Scottish League for the seventh time, a feat never before achieved.

The big disappointment for the Celts was losing to Inter Milan in the semi-final of the European Cup. And this because of a penalty miss by Dixie Deans after the second-leg match was dead-locked following 30 minutes of extra time.

Inter scored with all five so they went to the final on a score of five penalty goals to four. Manager Stein said afterwards: 'We don't consider we lost on football – but to a circus turn'.

Celtic have some outstanding youngsters coming along. Like Kenny Dalglish, 20, who has already been capped by Tommy Docherty and who is certain to go right to the top. And Victor Davidson, Paul Wilson and Pat McCluskey.

Rangers have a player as promising as any – Derek Johnstone. He is 18 and manager Willie Waddell has compared him to John Charles because of his ability to slot easily into the centre half berth or move up to centre and head goals. Johnstone says: 'I'd like to play for Scotland but what I want most of all is to be in a winning Rangers side.'

What Scotland lacks is a really sustained challenge at the top. Aberdeen led for only a short time but they lost their title chance when they showed too much deference to Rangers towards the end of the season at Pittodrie and dropped a point. And then in the following week they lost to Dunfermline who finished up being relegated along with Clyde.

Airdrie had an outstanding finish to the season. They reached the final of the Texaco Cup even though they were fighting grimly to avoid relegation.

Apart from the major success of Celtic and Rangers what did emerge is that there are still plenty of young players on the way up.

'The place is loaded with them,' says Tommy Docherty. 'Every time I look at a team I see more and more of them.' And when he weighed up Partick Thistle he saw men like John Hansen, Alex Forsyth and goalkeeper Alan Rough – who all helped Thistle to bring off the biggest shock of the season by beating Celtic 4-1 in the League Cup final.

Who are some of the other youngsters who are moving up the scale? Willie Young, the young giant who plays centre half for Aberdeen. Ian Phillip, an all-purpose man with Dundee, has been spoken about by scouts from all the top English clubs. Alex Cropley, of Hibs, could have been the season's outstanding youngster but for a bad ankle injury which put him out of business with the season only two-thirds gone.

Alistair Hunter, of Kilmarnock is surely following in the footsteps of other fine Rugby Park 'keepers like Bobby Ferguson, now of West Ham, and Campbell Forsyth, who ended up with Southampton. Joe Filippi, of Ayr United, will develop into an outstanding full back and is being nursed along carefully by manager Ally MacLeod.

The two teams who have been promoted, Dumbarton and Arbroath, are extremely ambitious. And jolly good luck to them, too.

Football Sponsorship

The sponsorship of sport is a new phenomenon in this country. It is something that I actively encouraged when I was the Minister for Sport for good and practical reasons.

We contrived to create a partnership with the various sporting bodies by initiating percentage grant schemes to cover the various aspects of sports development that we were anxious to encourage – more efficient administration, coaching at club and senior level, international competition and so on.

The difficulty of such a system is that the more grants the Government is prepared to make the more money the sport has to raise for itself. Clearly the answer lies partly in the development of sponsorship and so we encouraged this development, subject to one consideration of crucial importance. The sport receiving sponsorship help must be completely in control of the situation, its integrity must be maintained against any commercial considerations.

It is very much to the credit of those firms who are now sponsoring British sport that no such complaints have arisen.

What are the considerations that interest the companies? I believe they can be summarised as follows:

1. It is good business to associate the firm or its products with a sporting event of interest to its clients or customers.
2. If a major sporting event is created or sponsored the potential coverage by the communications media is very considerable.
3. Company awareness. The opportunity to project a company to a new public or to re-inforce its image in new directions.
4. A desire to act as a 'patron of sport' for more altruistic reasons, a belief that commercial undertakings have social obligations beyond financial considerations.

The Football League were among the first of the organisations to take up sponsorship in a big way. They do not receive any Government financial aid as they are a professional business undertaking. Yet their need to develop more financial support, especially to assist their less wealthy clubs, can be seen quite clearly.

The Football League Management Committee has proved to be adventurous and successful in pursuing its sponsorship policy and no doubt success is largely due to the enterprise and vigour of Alan Hardaker their Secretary.

The Texaco Cup was tailor-made for this oil company when it changed its name from Regent. Texaco have measured consumer reaction and are quite certain that the establishment of the Texaco Cup was a classic case of company awareness.

The Watney company has long been involved in sponsorship. The Cup which bears their name is played by eight Football League clubs immediately prior to the official season and this excellent sense of timing creates a high degree of public interest. This competition seeks to achieve another target – that of encouraging attacking football, for the teams qualify for it on their goal scoring capacity in the previous season. An interesting example of how sponsorship can be intelligently used to further developments in sport that need to be encouraged.

The Football Association has not yet found a sponsor for any of its minor competitions but there are some interesting possibilities available for consideration. Television coverage is of obvious importance to sponsors and no doubt the F.A. will need to consider this aspect of their competitions when entering into discussions with prospective clients.

It is interesting to note that the F.A. reached agreement with Wembley Stadium so that discreet advertising was allowed on that hallowed ground, although history was actually made in this respect at the Football League Cup Final.

The one event that I do not expect to see sponsored in my life time is the F.A. Cup itself, it would hardly be British, though I would not be surprised to find the sponsorship of individual clubs as a future development. If that helped to redress the present balance by which all the best players gravitate to just a few clubs then it would be doing the game a great service.

Home International Championship

The catcalls were deafening. There were 30,000 Scots at Wembley and all of them seemed to be after one thing – the blood of their team's manager, Bobby Brown. It was not just that his side had lost an international match 3-1; more relevantly they had lost THE international match 3-1. For England had confirmed their superiority of a decade, had either won or shared the Home Championship for the seventeenth time in twenty years, and had scored three goals that might someday be viewed as more nails in the coffin of the world's oldest international competition.

The fact that Home International games are looking more and more like a canter for England, that they cannot be regarded as genuine testing grounds while so many players from the same League clubs are appearing on both sides, that end of season fixture congestion is forcing Wales and Ireland to put out ridiculously weak sides for even those weak countries, have all caused more than a few questions to form in the minds of those who run the game.

Only a few months after that England-Scotland match officials and newspapers were tentatively questioning the worth of this traditional feature of the British game. And, despite universal agreement that it would be a pity to lose the England-Scotland fixture, the carefully hedged conclusion appeared to be that the competition might well be expendable.

This is the inevitable concomitant to a post-War football revolution. The importance of the World Cup and European Championship now overshadows everything else in the international sphere. European club commitments, the League Cup, the sponsored events like the Watney, Texaco and Anglo-Italian cups, have made clubs even more reluctant to release players for international games. And even the F.A. was forced to enter in discussions about fringe commitments being pruned at the beginning of 1972.

Yet exactly one hundred years earlier very few could have imagined that such a competition would flower at all. Charles Alcock, secretary of the F.A. was the prime mover at the beginning as he was at the beginning of so much that we now take for granted.

Alcock wrote to a Glasgow newspaper asking that any 'Scotch' players who might be interested in playing against a team of Englishmen should get in touch with him. Queen's Park – who were Scottish football at the time – suggested one Robert Smith, an ex-Queen's player who turned out for South Norwood. As a result four unofficial games were arranged at the Oval between a team produced by Alcock and a London Scottish XI organised by Smith.

But it was the semi-final between Queen's Park and the Wanderers in the first ever F.A. Cup competition that really led to the first 'official' international. That semi-final can fairly be said to have been the first football match – of any code – that really caught the imagination of the general public.

As a result the F.A. decided that it was probably worthwhile making a trip to Glasgow for an official meeting between the two countries. It is in keeping with the arrogance of the Empire-building Victorians that the trip should have been regarded in London as something of an educating mission.

The intent was – according to the F.A. minutes – to help spread the game north of the border. Here the connivance of Queen's Park is apparent. At the time there was no Scottish F.A., so Queen's Park handled all the arrangements, including putting eight of their players in the side. They were undoubtedly keen of promoting the game in Glasgow and the first suggestion of a serious visit by the English to Scotland came from them sometime during their trip to London to play the Wanderers.

The game was played at the West of Scotland Cricket Ground at Partick on 30th November, 1872. 4,000 people turned out to watch and the game ended in the only official 0-0 draw for nearly 100 years.

A return was arranged at Kennington Oval the following year, England winning handsomely 4-2, but the Scots gained revenge in 1874 with a 2-1 win in Glasgow. That result was a great boost for the newly formed Scottish F.A. – which had found room for seven Queen's Park men in the side.

The English F.A. expanded its international orbit as early as 1879 when, on 18th January, the Welsh put up a hard fight at Kennington and only went down 2-1. Three years later the Irish suffered for the impudence in joining the international arena by going down 13-0 still England's highest win in official internationals.

Wales first played Scotland in 1876, Ireland in 1882 and the Scots and Irish completed the circle in 1884. Scotland won the first two fully fledged Championships – 1883-4 and 1884-5 – without losing a game. After that the Scots began to decline as a power as England's professionals got the better of opponents still bound – until 1893 – by amateur regulations.

It was not until 1902-3 that one of the other two countries, Ireland, managed to even share the title and the English had things very much their own way for a while. In 1890, 1891 and 1892 for instance, they played Wales and Ireland on the same day with two completely different sides (and won all six games!) On 5th March 1894 and 18th March 1895 the Corinthians were allowed to chose the whole England side for the games against Wales. (These remain the only occasions a whole England side has come from one club, though Corinthians, drawing on players from gentlemanly positions all over the country, were more a club in the Pall Mall than Preston North End sense.)

The Irish and Welsh have, in fact, had pitifully little say in the whole affair since it began. The Irish have won the Championship outright just once, in 1913-14, oddly enough at a time when that country (still politically united) was in a state of virtual civil war which could hardly have been condusive to football.

They have never completed the grand slam (the defeat of the other three countries in the same season), though the Welsh have included this twice – in 1923-24 and 1936-37 – among their seven outright wins. Since the Second World War the best either country has managed – on four occasions apiece – is a shared title. One of those occasions was in 1955-56 when all four countries finished with three points apiece and, as goal average does not count, the title was shared four ways – a rather pointless case of everyone first, the rest non-existent.

England and Scotland have shared the rest of the honours quite evenly, remarkable testimony to the Scots who have, after all, a population barely a tenth of that of England. Since the first full tournament in 1883-34, England have registered 28 outright wins plus 18 shared, successes which includes the longest consecutive set of titles (1951-52 to 1960-61) ever won outright or shared. England, in fact, have had a foot in every single shared title.

The tournament in 1972 produced only a meagre ration of goals though it began with England scoring three goals at Ninian Park against Wales. The same day Scotland defeated Ireland 2-0 with late goals. Then came the sensation of the series when Ireland came to Wembley to achieve their first success against England since 1957 winning by a Terry Neill goal. It was the first occasion that England had lost two internationals in succession at Wembley.

Scotland again made heavy weather of beating Wales 1-0 and then came the battle between the old foes when the Scots entertained England at Hampden. A match of considerable physical violence ended with England winning 1-0 from a first half Alan Ball goal and were certainly the better side. Then in the evening of the same Saturday Wales and Ireland produced no goals.

Scotland played all three matches at home because of the political situation in Ireland, who themselves were forced to play their trio away.

Scotland still have 22 outright wins and another 16 shared, but have the consolation of having won 35 of their games against England, three more than their rivals have registered against them with as many as 22 drawn.

International Appearances

Bobby Charlton, of course, has not won 106 caps. If you happened to sort through his trophies you would find just 87 – and no more. For that is the number he has actually won. So where are the other 19? Simple – they do not exist, for caps are awarded not for international matches played, but for international appearances. And the Home International Championship during any one season is regarded as just one appearance. So if Bobby Charlton played against Ireland, Wales and Scotland in any one season he would get only one cap and not three. Hence the missing 19 and one of the commonest misapprehensions about international football.

The word 'cap' comes, obviously enough, from the headgear worn by the earliest footballers. Nottingham F. – the League's second oldest club – recorded in their first minutes that the team's colours '. . . shall be red caps . . .', and for several years this was often the only means of distinguishing your own side from the opposition.

Bobby Charlton, as well as holding the English record for most international appearances, is probably also the holder of the world record. Probably is an important qualification, for the status of many 'international' matches is often in doubt, particularly in South America where numerous games are of an international nature but not quality are contested.

The only other players generally accepted to have reached three figures by the end of 1971 were Pele (110), Billy Wright (105), Leonel Sanchez (Chile – 104), Thorbjorn Svennsen (Norway – 104), Djalma Santos (Brazil – 101), Jozsef Bozsik (Hungary – 100) and the leading goalkeeper, Gilmar (Brazil – 100).

In a sense Wright's record is equal to Charlton's in that both started 105 international games. Charlton's extra match came in New York in 1964, when he was substituted for George Eastham after 33 minutes. This game against the USA, which England won 8-1, must be regarded as being of doubtful international quality, though England certainly turned out a full-strength side.

Wright did complete two feats as yet unbeaten – his 70 consecutive internationals between 1 October 1951 and 28th May 1959 is a world record, as is his 38 appearances in the Home International Championship. Danny Blanchflower, of Northern Ireland, holds the record for consecutive Home Championship appearances, with 33 between 1952 and 1962.

Ivor Allchurch's Welsh record total also causes some confusion as he played one game for Wales versus the Rest of the United Kingdom and his aggregate is 67 or 68 depending on whether it is accepted as a 'full' game or not.

F.I.F.A.'s imprecise and often changing rules on eligibility have caused some strange anomolies. Johnny Carey, for instance, played 29 times for Eire, 7 times for Northern Ireland in the Home International Championship, and once captained the Rest of Europe against the United Kingdom – a game in which he could presumably have been picked for both sides!

Ladislav Kubala, born in Hungary, turned out for his native country but later also for Czechoslovakia and Spain. Alfredo di Stefano has also played for three countries – Argentina, where he was born, Colombia, where he went in search of fabled riches in 1950, and later Spain, where he led Real Madrid.

The only British player to have appeared for three countries is J. Kennaway, the Celtic goalkeeper of the 1930s. After turning out for Canada against the USA in 1928, he reversed his allegiance for the match between those same two countries in 1930, and later made two appearances for Scotland in 1933 and 1934.

But few can have had such a traumatic international debut as Blackpool's Stanley Mortensen did on 25th September 1943. England were playing Wales at Wembley in a wartime match and Mortensen was England's reserve. But when Ivor Powell, the Welsh left-half, was injured it was agreed that Mortensen should take his place. He thus ended up playing against his own side on his international debut.

International Caps

This is a list of full international appearances by Englishmen, Irishmen, Scotsmen and Welshmen in matches against the Home Countries and against Foreign Nations. It does not include matches against Commonwealth and Empire countries. On pages 786–788 will be found a list of wartime matches and Victory Internationals (also not classed as full appearances).

The pressures of controlling world football

Brian James

This year, 1972, sees the beginning of the long struggle for the 1974 World Cup; the struggle of nearly 140 national teams to gain one of the places in the final series in Germany, the struggle to foresee and cope with the thousands of complex problems of organisation that a tournament of such importance will produce.

And, below the surface, another struggle will rage – to ensure that the 1974 World Cup is not the last, as some pessimists quietly fear. For F.I.F.A., the organising body for international football, is facing its greatest test since its formation in 1904.

To understand the nature of the struggle it is first necessary to understand what F.I.F.A. is, and how it works. F.I.F.A., the common abbreviation for the International Federation of Football Associations, was set up 68 years ago by Belgium, France, Denmark, Germany, the Netherlands and Switzerland to provide a uniform style and standard for football throughout the world, and to control the running of games between nations at all levels.

Since then, F.I.F.A. has grown into a vast and complex organisation – run from offices in Zurich – which has the final word on all great competitions such as the World Cup and the Olympic football tournament, and is yet concerned with the tinier details, like the rights of individual players to move from one country to another.

F.I.F.A. was founded on democratic principles, all footballing men being regarded as equals, and one nation, one vote. But it is this very democracy that has created the problems that now threaten to undermine an organisation that has out-lived the League of Nations and often given an example of international cooperation to UNO.

For the world has changed dramatically since those six nations banded together in 1904. Since the Second World War especially, new nations have emerged at a rate once unthinkable. And, since football is a world game, it has followed that F.I.F.A.'s membership has expanded at a breathtaking pace. At the last count 140 countries were affiliated to F.I.F.A. and, as wars and disputes change frontiers, so fresh applications for membership come in a thin but constant stream. And each of these nations, no matter how new or how minor in a footballing sense, is entitled to a place – and to a vote.

Figures published by F.I.F.A. this year illustrate the problem: Europe, with over 7,500,000 senior players (21,000 professionals) has 33 national associations and thus 33 votes. South America, with 11,900 professionals has 10 votes; yet Asia, with only 90 professional players has 32 votes and Africa, with fewer senior clubs than Europe has senior referees, has 39 votes. The absurdities of the situation are obvious.

Yet, at the same time, the newly-emergent nations of Africa and Asia (understandably nationalistic and understandably proud) are demanding an increasing share in world football. They are seeking, in general terms, a voice in the running of the game in proportion to their numbers. And, in specific terms, more opportunity to compete in events like the World Cup on the same basis as the giants of Europe and South America, instead of being forced to scrabble among themselves for a single place or two. Luckily for football the moderates among the newer nations see the nonsense of suggestions that up to eight countries as weak as Senegal, Mali, Ghana or Cambodia should compete in the finals with teams such as Brazil and Argentina, England or West Germany.

But world football also includes a minority of extremists who would be prepared to permit such a debacle for the sake of national pride.

Denis Follows, secretary of the F.A., complained this year: 'The present situation in F.I.F.A. means that England's vote, representing 32,391 clubs, threequarters of a million players and 107 years of experience, is worth no more than the vote of the smallest and newest member'. His answer came from Ethiopia's representative, Mr. J. Tessema: 'Europe must realise that her Golden Age of football is over, now she must share the direction of F.I.F.A. with the other continents. This will come, despite the great orators of Europe who wish to perpetuate the European supremacy. We have no intention of seizing control of F.I.F.A. from one day to the next, we merely envisage a F.I.F.A. which will no longer be the private domain of a single continent'.

The words are forthright, but so far the action has been diplomatic. An open breach was avoided at both of the last two F.I.F.A. Congresses in 1970 and 1972, although the Afro-Asian block who now represent over 60 per cent of F.I.F.A.'s voting power, muttered quietly that all six presidents of F.I.F.A. have been Europeans, and that only six of the 21 places on F.I.F.A.'s Executive Committee were held by Afro-Asian representatives.

For nearly 70 years F.I.F.A., with a tiny staff of 12 including the caretaker at Zurich, has done a magnificent job in bringing football through its many changes and evolutions to become certainly the most sophisticated sports organisation in the world, controlling the playing activities of over 15,500,000 young men in six continents.

But in the next few years, it needs moderation as never before. The 1974 World Cup will be the last in the present form if extremist views prevail; Europe and South America will not leave F.I.F.A. unless they are forced to by impossible demands from small nations not yet experienced enough to take control, and equally the Afro-Asian bloc will not destroy F.I.F.A. in its present form unless they become convinced that their reasonable demands for a steadily-increasing share in control is being resisted.

F.I.F.A. was founded by football people for football and footballers. The game has united nations in a way nothing else has equalled. Individual pride or national sensitivity – these are unimportant reasons to challenge a sport as big as the world itself.

The World Cup – Forty Years On

When Brazil won the World Cup outright in 1970 it completed a chapter of history that had started 40 years earlier. For the first competition was organised and played in Uruguay in 1930. Nine countries entered from the Americas – Uruguay, Argentina, Mexico, Chile, Brazil, Bolivia, Peru, Paraguay and the United States, while Belgium, France, Rumania and Yugoslavia represented the European entry.

From this small beginning the competition grew until it has attracted 96 entries for the 1974 series.

While the World Cup itself was only formulated in the 1930s, the idea was born at the inaugural meeting in Paris by the six nations who formed the FIFA organisation in May 1904. They wrote into their statute that they were the only body to have the authority to promote a world championship. But it took longer to implement than the sextet of Belgium, Denmark, France, Holland, Spain and Switzerland had hoped for at that meeting.

Undoubtedly the success of the Olympic Games football competitions despite its accompanying problems of broken time payments brought a world championship nearer.

FIFA allowed national associations to define the word 'amateur' in their own fashion. But the growth of professionalism after the First World War put pressure on the situation where some countries could not field their best players in the Olympics and others took the easy way through 'shamateurism'.

The election of Jules Rimet a French lawyer and president of the French Football Federation as President of FIFA at the Antwerp Congress of 1920 helped the cause of the World Cup considerably. Rimet was ably backed by Henri Delaunay, secretary of the French Federation.

Uruguay, winners of the 1924 and 1928 Olympic Games tournaments, had a strong claim for holding the first World Cup when the idea was finally accepted.

At the 1928 Amsterdam Congress over 80 per cent of the members voted in favour of the competition and subsequently Uruguay was chosen as the venue.

Uruguay crowned their achievement by winning the series to complete a unique hat-trick of international titles.

The most difficult hurdle had been overcome and, with the increase in membership of countries in FIFA, there was a bigger entry when the 1934 tournament was held in Italy. Thirty-two nations originally entered. It was decided on the knock-out principle in the final stages – unlike the first competition on a League basis in groups until the semi-finals. Again the host nation won and Italy became the holders. The tournament was a financial success, too.

The Italians repeated their triumph in 1938 in Paris before the advent of the Second World War put the Cup aside until 1950. Thirty-six countries had originally entered in 1938; this time there were five fewer. The group system of 1930 was reinstated.

Back in South America the World Cup was held in Brazil but Uruguay were the surprise winners. Again in 1954 in Switzerland it was the favourites Hungary who were upset in the final by West Germany.

The Brazilians again won the 1958 series in Sweden, the first occasion that a country outside the host continent had been successful. Fifty-three original entries had been whittled down as previously to the accepted sixteen for the final stages.

In 1962 the Brazilians retained their trophy in Chile, but already the stranglehold of defensive football had changed the international scene from the free-scoring days of the 1950s.

Goals were just as scarce in 1966 apart from isolated examples. England won on her own soil but failed to retain the Jules Rimet Trophy four years later in Mexico, when Brazil completed her third success to keep the trophy for good.

The World Cup itself was designed by the French sculptor Abel Lafleur. Standing a foot high it weighed around nine pounds in gold and became the symbol of world football supremacy.

FIFA have politely refused the Brazilian offer of donating a new World Cup Trophy which was to have been named the Churchill Cup. Instead, they have commissioned an Italian designer, 57-year-old Silvio Gazzaniga, to design the statuette. This cost £8,000, is made of solid 18 carat gold, and weighs over 10 lb. All participating countries will receive a small replica of the trophy, and its design has been officially registered with the Swiss Government. No commercial exploitation will be allowed under any circumstances. The new trophy will be known as The FIFA World Cup and cannot be won outright!

According to the 16 finalists system, there is only room for 14 teams in the tournament alongside the holders and the hosts (W. Germany and Brazil). The Europeans insisted in having no less than ten finalists, South America wanted four, while one place each had to be allocated to Central and North America, Asia and Africa. That was definitely one too many, so FIFA decided that the winners of the European Group 9 should play-off for a place with the winners of the South American Group 3.

One very important change will be introduced in 1974. The knock-out element will be eliminated, and apart from the Final, the countries will play-off the competition in mini-leagues.

Here is the exact blueprint and time-table of the '74 FIFA World Cup. The 16 teams will be drawn into four groups of four, with Group 1 headed by W. Germany, and Group 2 by Brazil. Unlike other competitions, not the hosts, but Brazil will open the tournament on the 13th June. The dates of the group competitions are:

GROUP 1 – June 14, 18, 22;
GROUP 2 – June 14, 18, 22;
GROUP 3 – June 15, 19, 23;
GROUP 4 – June 15, 19, 23.

The top two teams from each section will go forward to the semi-finals, which will also be played on the round-robin basis. GROUP A will consist of the winners of Group 1 and 3 and the runners-up of Group 2 and 4. Group B will consist of the winners from Group 2 and 4 and the runners-up from the other two sections. The winners of GROUPS A and B will contest the Final, and the runners-up from each Group will play-off for third place. Semi-final dates are: June 26, 30 and July 3; Third place play-off: July 6; Final July 7.

Europe's future looks bright

Leslie Vernon

Football is the obsession of the world. A passionate common language which binds together people of different creeds, colour and political persuasion. It is undoubtedly the most popular spectator sport ever invented, with a magical attraction for the young.

In my view, the game's enormous popularity is due partly to the simplicity of the rules and, to the fact that, at some level, most men have played football. Consequently, instant identification is guaranteed with a team or with a particularly gifted player. Football appeals to our herd instinct and to our sub-conscious – who wouldn't like to score a goal in a Wembley Cup Final? Incidentally, in England, the Cup Final has been seen on TV by more people than the first moon landing, and the World Cup Final was watched by an audience of 400-million. Instant drama without a script, often spontaneous comedy, a touch of the schoolboy heroics – these are the ingredients.

In Europe (including the Soviet Union), during a weekend in the peak period, about 20 million people watch professional football. These figures represent only domestic football, and the game on international level has an even more irresistible appeal. A firm advocate of competitive international football, I believe that, despite its small imperfections, sporting contact between nations has unique beneficial effects. Football tends to emphasize the similarities of behaviour and emotional responses.

The European game on an international level is controlled by the Union des Associations Europeennes de Football (U.E.F.A.) which is responsible for running the major competitions. The idea of an integrated European League has been a long-cherished pipe dream, but is rather impracticable. Inspired by a suggestion made by the French journalist Gabriel Hanot, the U.E.F.A. introduced the Champion's Cup in the mid 50s. It was an instant success, and now it is every manager's ambition to win this coveted prize. Only the champion clubs of the 33 member nations and the holders are eligible. (As Wales has no official league, the number of entrants remains 33.)

The enormous popularity of the European Cup encouraged the official body to initiate other similar competitions. The Cup Winners' Cup began in 1960 with ten clubs competing but, by the end of the decade, could proudly boast a full complement of entries (34). For clubs unable to qualify for the two major tournaments, the Fairs Cup has been a convenient backdoor into the lucrative world of international football. Following a tentative start, the three-man organizing committee was flooded with applications from teams wishing to take part, and during the latter years the number of acceptances was raised from 48 to 64. Last season, the U.E.F.A. took over the running of this colourful competition, re-named it the U.E.F.A. Cup and clearly stated that only clubs which finished high in their respective domestic leagues will be accepted. The number of entries from each country varies according to their footballing strength, and the holders are automatically invited, similarly, to the senior tournaments.

All three Cups are played on the home-and-away basis: if clubs finish level on aggregate, the team which scored more goals on their opponent's ground goes into the next round. In journalistic shorthand, this system is often referred to as the 'away-goals-count-double' rule. After extra time of the second-leg, if the teams are still deadlocked, a series of penalty-kicks decide the issue.

Alongside the club tournaments, the U.E.F.A. is also responsible for the European Championship, formally known as the Nations' Cup, played for by national teams. This is held during the two years immediately following World Cups, and has become a very important trophy, second only to the global tournament.

The youngest international event is the European Championship for Under-23 teams which runs concurrently with the senior version, and the final stages of the very first tournament were also played at approximately the same time. These five competitions provide a full, exciting, meaningfull programme at both national and club level. One can safely say that European international football is in excellent health – a happy state of affairs, for which much credit is due to the inspired work of the U.E.F.A.

The end of the Fairs Cup

When the U.E.F.A. Cup was introduced in the 1971–72 season it replaced the old Fairs Cup which had existed since 1955 under several titles of varying length and had actually been put into operation before the European Cup.

At first it was open to cities where Industrial Fairs were held and representative teams were often fielded. For instance London entered a side in the opening competition which ran incredibly from 1955 to 1958.

The next competition took only two years to decide and by 1960–61 it had been organised along similar lines to the other two competitions in Europe when the Cup Winners Cup made its appearance that year too.

In later years the Fairs Cup became almost as popular as the other two and since more than one entry was possible from certain countries a top entry of 64 was able to provide European football on a grand scale.

As a gesture and in an effort to finally decide the resting place of the trophy, a Fairs Cup decider was played last season between Barcelona (Spain) and Leeds United (England). The logic in this choice was that the first ever winners Barcelona met the last winners, Leeds United.

World Club Championship

Although competed for annually only between the winners of the European Cup and its South American equivalent – the Copa de los Libertadores – this all embracing title does concern the two leading and most commercialised football continents of the world.

It was not until the South Americans started their own cup competition specifically to provide a challenger for the European winners in 1960 that the World Club Championship was launched. In the early years there was little hint of the unhappy incidents which have subsequently grown into an all too familiar tradition.

In the first twelve competitions the South Americans have had the edge with seven victories to five and it is perhaps significant in view of the passions which this tournament has aroused, that only once when Feyenoord of the Netherlands were successful in 1970, has a non-Latin side managed to win it.

In keeping with the rather haphazard arrangement and non-official blessing given it, the manner of determining the final has also been most unsatisfactory. Though home and away matches were played, goal average did not count so a win by both teams would force a play-off on the ground of the team playing at home in the second match. But in 1969 it was decided that goal average would after all find the winners.

Real Madrid who were then on the crest of their European Cup successes became the first holders when they defeated Penarol (Uruguay) in the initial tournament. The Uruguayans were able to turn the tables in the 1966 final by which time the old Real Madrid team had largely disappeared.

The first taste of serious altercation came during the 1963 final between Santos (Brazil) and AC Milan (Italy). A player from each side was sent off in the play-off which Santos won.

But the real trouble came in 1967 when Celtic went to Buenos Aires for the second game with Racing Club (Argentina). Even before the match Celtic's goalkeeper Ronnie Simpson was knocked out by a missile from the crowd and took no part in the game. When the action got under way, four Celtic and two Racing players were sent off.

The following year was scarcely any better. Another Argentinian side Estudiantes de la Plata was involved with Manchester United. In Bueons Aires Nobby Stiles was sent off – but only for disputing a linesman's decision and at Old Trafford George Best and the Argentinian Medina were ordered off for fighting.

AC Milan suffered even more at the hands of Estudiantes the following year when with a comfortable three goal lead from the first leg they fell foul of their opponents in Buenos Aires. Their Argentinian born centre forward Nestor Combin had his nose broken and as a result of this and other unsavoury incidents three Estudiantes players received lengthy suspensions by order of the country's President.

Feyenoord were roughed up when Estudiantes appeared in their third successive final and largely as a result of this, Ajax Amsterdam refused to meet Nacional of Uruguay in the 1971 final. Eventually Panathinaikos the beaten European Cup Finalists agreed to play and unfortunately lost a player with a broken leg in the first match – but it must be said that although the player who caused the accident was sent off, it was one of very few bad incidents.

The 1972 qualifiers were Ajax Amsterdam who won the European Cup for the second year in succession and Independiente (Argentina) from the South American Cup.

In the final of the latter competition the Argentinians defeated Universitario Lima (Peru), drawing 0-0 in Peru and winning on their own soil 2-1.

It was a particularly satisfying performance for Independiente because for the first time in many years the strong Brazilian clubs also entered the competition.

Undoubtedly the ideal operation of a World Club Championship would be to take in the other continents and moves towards this end are now in their infancy. But until stricter measures can be taken under the present set-up, there seems little point in developing hostilities on a really world-wide scale.

Soccer—the World game

While it is recognised that the present strongholds of the game are Europe and South America, the emerging continents are Africa and Asia who might well challenge the other two during the next decade.

The Africans are already at an advanced stage with a Nations Cup for countries and a similar competition for clubs organised on the lines of the European Cup.

And despite considerable political and social problems the Asians have also made their mark. The North Koreans provided one of the biggest surprises in modern times when they reached the quarter-finals of the World Cup in 1966.

In 1970 Morocco and Israel reached the last sixteen of the same competition and were accompanied by another of the game's lesser brethren El Salvador.

The latter qualified largely because Mexico, who hitherto had been the strongest country in the North and Central American Zone in the past, were hosts for this world championship.

Although these three countries were not outclassed, they failed to either make any impact or reach any further in the competition.

Providing that the continents of the world can find the time and money to develop their game not only within their own spheres but in co-operation with their neighbours, the overall standard of football must improve in the farther-flung outposts.

Apart from the World Cup which can only serve the needs of a small proportion of those who wish to compete in the final stages, the Olympic Games competition, though much maligned, can provide the extra opportunity for those continents wishing to enhance their prospects as international forces.

Unfortunately the greatest difficulty which faces the growth of the game at all levels and on all continents is the stranglehold which political and idealogical alignment forces on the freedom of many countries.

Although the Koreans showed courage and ability their chief weakness was in tactics. This was due mainly to the limit of their playing horizons. But at the same time it posed a thought that the Chinese in such a vast country as theirs must be able to field a team of equal if not greater strength.

Whether they will ever become universally accepted and filter through into the World Cup preliminaries is another matter of course and can only be answered in political terms.

But just as Eusebio from Mozambique has made his name in Portugal, and Salif Keita of Mali has earned a justified reputation in recent years as a professional in France, perhaps one day someone from China will become as famous a name in football around the world as Pele.

Football not only cuts across frontiers it represents a cross section of communities as no other game. There are competitions as widely ranging – in the light of modern events – as the World Military Championships and the European Universities Championships. The game is a great social equaliser as well as an exercise in sport and if contests between rival countries often produce altercation it is nothing to the conflict which has always existed between people of different races and creeds.

It has been said that the World Cup qualifying match for the 1970 competition between El Salvador and Honduras sparked off a war between the two countries. In reality it was used as an excuse to enter into armed combat with neighbours who have always regarded each other with mutual dislike.

Strangely enough it has often been the closest of neighbours who have fallen out on the football field yet those whose interests and way of life is quite apart have found more common ground in the game than out of it.

A Continent Captivated by Football

Introduction to the European Nations Section

Although football in Europe is controlled by one authority – the Union Européenes des Associations de Football (U.E.F.A.) – the structure of the game at all levels differs, sometimes considerably, from one country to another. There is a mistaken tendency to bracket all Continental nations outside the British Isles under one heading, but in fact there exist vastly different attitudes, styles of play, disciplinary procedures, transfer systems, etc., and even diverse methods of deciding some domestic competitions within the 33 national Football Associations affiliated to U.E.F.A.

The size of the League varies for instance from the modest 8 clubs in the First Division of Iceland, to 20 clubs in France, just two short of the English First Division, which is the largest overall. In Scandinavian countries like Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland, as well as in Russia, the season runs from April till November and there, as in other Central and Eastern European countries, the climatic conditions (ice, frost and snow) prevent any form of outdoor soccer activities between December and March. In those countries the domestic championship is in fact suspended, at a time when in Western Europe the season continues right through until spring.

In a number of countries their own F.A.-Cup competition lacked in the past the popularity enjoyed by the traditional F.A. Cup in England. Only recently has the lucrative Cup Winners' Cup tournament elevated the domestic version of the Cup to its present higher status. But that increasingly popular League Cup in England, for example, is still not staged anywhere outside the United Kingdom. Perhaps the most important differences are found between the attitudes to paid soccer, that is the professional and the amateur performers.

In most countries professionalism on the scale as organised in England or Italy for instance, simply cannot flourish because of lack of funds through insufficient support. In Eastern Europe, where professional football is still officially not recognised, their definitions of amateurism remain totally incompatible with those principles as accepted in Western Europe.

European Footballer of the Year

Every year since 1956 a leading weekly soccer magazine France Football, which exercises a powerful influence on the international scene, has been organising a poll to find Europe's 'Footballer of the Year'. Although soccer is essentially a team game, the individual brilliance which fires the imagination of the masses, reaps its reward by similar nominations.

With few exceptions, Europe's top footballers as selected by the voting journalists, have been members of internationally successful teams either at national or at club level. Not surprisingly, the reigning 'European Footballer of the Year' is the outstanding Dutch centre forward Johann Cruyff, whose skill and goalscoring power were instrumental in Ajax Amsterdam winning the coveted European Champions Cup in 1971.

European Nations Section

Details have been listed for all European footballing Nations, but unfortunately due to other countries seasons finishing at different times from our own, many league champions and cup winners are unknown for the current season. Total number of Championship wins is given with actual winners names from 1955 onwards in most instances.

Irish League

Football in Northern Ireland emerged with credit from its most crisis-ridden season in history—a season which was delayed by almost two weeks in starting due to the civil unrest in the Province.

Distillery and Derry City were forced to vacate their grounds—Grosvenor Park, Belfast, and Brandywell—as they were situated in flashpoint areas with the Ballymena United bus hi-jacked, driven from Brandywell and set on fire by terrorists. Yet, in the true tradition of show business, the match went on!

Distillery were accommodated by Crusaders at Seaview while Derry City accepted an offer from Coleraine to share their ground. Match venues had to be altered on the advice of security forces to prevent possible confrontations between rival factions; no floodlit football was possible; clubs struggled through their European club cup commitments but next season no entry is to be made on their behalf by the Irish F.A.

U.E.F.A. were "perturbed" at their clubs visiting trouble-torn Ulster and the Irish F.A. felt it was not feasible economically to stage both legs away from home. They were given an assurance that non-participation on this occasion will not be prejudicial to future applications.

Northern Ireland was hit hard at representative level. No internationals or inter-league fixtures could be played in Belfast and the Irish F.A. had to take their European Championship game with Spain to Boothferry Park, Hull, in February while the Home Championship game against Scotland was switched from Windsor Park, Belfast, to Hampden Park, Glasgow after the Scottish F.A., had declined to travel.

Yet, despite these adversities, it proved to be a reasonably satisfactory season. There was the one-nil defeat of England at Wembley; the scoreless draw against Wales and the amateur international side won the British championship—even though every game was played away from home. Manager Jimmy Hill (Linfield) resigned shortly before the start and Billy Neill, ex-Glentoran, took over at short notice. His impact on the side was amazing; within two weeks he had them combining perfectly and they finished with a win over England, the holders, at Hendon.

Attendances slumped alarmingly yet, clubs, thanks to shrewd administration and the help from flourishing social centres and ancillary ventures, were able to make ends meet. The standard did not diminish either although players found it difficult to generate enthusiasm without crowd "atmosphere."

This was proved by the transfers of Martin O'Neill (Distillery to Nottingham Forest); Billy Irwin (Bangor to Cardiff City); Jim Kelly (Cliftonville to Wolverhampton Wanderers); Roy Coyle (Glentoran to Sheffield Wednesday) and Bryan Hamilton (Linfield to Ipswich Town).

Domestically, it was a year in which provincial clubs dominated although Glentoran won the Irish League championship. Coleraine took the Irish Cup in a 2–1 triumph over Portadown, who, however, landed the Gold Cup, a just reward for, under manager Gibby MacKenzie, they had been pace-setters throughout most of the season. Other trophy winners were: City Cup—Ballymena United; who reached the Texaco Cup semi-final before being defeated on aggregate by Airdrieonians; County Antrim Shield—Ards; Ulster Cup—Linfield.

To have survived in such circumstances is remarkable indeed. There is a long tough road ahead as clubs strive to bring back spectators; to improve the lot of players after talks with the Professional Players Association and to ensure that football does not die.

Laws of the Game

(Published by the Football Association, with whose permission they are reproduced)

LAW 1

THE FIELD OF PLAY

The Field of Play and appurtenances shall be as shown in the following plan:

(1) Dimensions. The field of play shall be rectangular, its length being not more than 130 yards nor less than 100 yards and its breadth not more than 100 yards nor less than 50 yards. (In International Matches the length shall be not more than 120 yards nor less than 110 yards and the breadth not more than 80 yards nor less than 70 yards.) The length shall in all cases exceed the breadth.

(2) Marking. The field of play shall be marked with distinctive lines, not more than 5 inches in width, not by a V-shaped rut, in accordance with the plan, the longer boundary lines being called the touch-lines and the shorter the goal-lines. A flag on a post not less than 5 feet high and having a non-pointed top, shall be placed at each corner; a similar flag-post may be placed opposite the halfway-line on each side of the field of play, not less than 1 yard outside the touch-line. A halfway-line shall be marked out across the field of play. The centre of the field of play shall be indicated by a suitable mark and a circle with a 10 yards radius shall be marked round it.

(3) The Goal-area. At each end of the field of play two lines shall be drawn at right-angles to the goal-line, 6 yards from each goal-post. These shall extend into the field of play for a distance of 6 yards and shall be joined by a line drawn parallel with the goal-line. Each of the spaces enclosed by these lines and the goal-line shall be called a goal-area.

(4) The Penalty-area. At each end of the field of play two lines shall be drawn at right-angles to the goal-line, 18 yards from each goal-post. These shall extend into the field of play for a distance of 18 yards and shall be joined by a line drawn parallel with the goal-line. Each of the spaces enclosed by these lines and the goal-line shall be called a penalty-area. A suitable mark shall be made within each penalty-area, 12 yards from the mid-point of the goal-line, measured along an undrawn line at right angles thereto. These shall be the penalty-kick marks. From each penalty-kick mark an arc of a circle, having a radius of 10 yards, shall be drawn outside the penalty-area.

(5) The Corner-area. From each corner-flag post a quarter circle, having a radius of 1 yard, shall be drawn inside the field of play.

(6) The Goals. The goals shall be placed on the centre of each goal-line and shall consist of two upright posts, equidistant from the corner-flags and 8 yards apart (inside measurement), joined by a horizontal cross-bar the lower edge of which shall be 8 feet. from the ground. The width and depth of the goal-posts and the width and depth of the cross-bars shall not exceed 5 inches (12 cm.). The goal-posts and the cross-bars shall have the same width.

Nets may be attached to the posts, cross-bars and ground behind the goals. They should be appropriately supported and be so placed as to allow the goalkeeper ample room.

LAW 2

THE BALL

The ball shall be spherical: the outer casing shall be of leather or other approved materials. No material shall be used in its construction which might prove dangerous to the players.

The circumference of the ball shall not be more than 28 inches and not less than 27 inches. The weight of the ball at the start of the game shall not be more than 16 oz. nor less than 14 oz. = 396 to 453 grammes. The pressure shall be equal to atmospheric pressure (15 lb. per sq. in., i.e. 1 kg. per sq. cm.) at sea level. The ball shall not be changed during the game unless authorised by the Referee.

LAW 3

NUMBER OF PLAYERS

(1) A match shall be played by two teams, each consisting of not more than eleven players, one of whom shall be the goalkeeper.

(2) Substitutes, up to a maximum of two per team, are permitted in a friendly match and also, provided that the authority of the International Association(s) or National Association(s) concerned has been obtained in a match played under the rules of a competition. The Referee shall be informed of the names of substitutes (if any) before the start of the match.

(3) One of the other players, or a named substitute (if allowed), may change places with the goalkeeper, provided that notice is given to the referee before the change is made.

Punishment. If, without the Referee being notified, a player or a named substitute, changes places with the goalkeeper during the game, at the half-time interval, or at any other interval in a game in which extra time is played, and then handles the ball within the penalty-area, a penalty-kick shall be awarded.

LAW 4

PLAYERS' EQUIPMENT

A player shall not wear anything which is dangerous to another player. Boots must conform to the following standard:

(a) Bars shall be made of leather or rubber and shall be transverse and flat, not less than half an inch in width and shall extend the total width of the boot and be rounded at the corners.

(b) Studs shall be made of leather, rubber, aluminium, plastic or similar material and shall be solid. With the exception of that part of the stud forming the base, which shall not protrude from the sole, more than one quarter of an inch, studs shall be round in plan and not less than half an inch in diameter. Where studs are tapered, the minimum diameter of any section of the stud must not be less than half an inch. Where metal seating for the screw type is used, this seating must be embedded in the sole of the boot and any attachment screw shall be part of the stud. Other than the metal seating for the screw type of stud, no metal plates even though covered with leather or rubber shall be worn, neither studs which are threaded to allow them to be screwed on to a base screw that is fixed by nails or otherwise to the soles of boots, nor studs which, apart from the base, have any form of protruding edge rim, or relief marking, or ornament, should be allowed.

(c) Combined bars and studs may be worn, provided the whole conforms to the general requirements of this law. Neither bars nor studs on the soles or heels shall project more than three-quarters of an inch. If nails are used they shall be driven in flush with the surface.

(N.B.—The usual equipment of a player consists of a jersey or shirt, shorts, stockings and boots. A goalkeeper shall wear colours which distinguish him from the other players.)

Punishment. For any infringement of this Law, the player at fault shall be sent off the field of play to adjust his equipment and he shall not return without first reporting to the Referee, who shall satisfy himself that the player's equipment is in order; the player shall only re-enter the game at a moment when the ball has ceased to be in play.

LAW 5

REFEREES

A Referee shall be appointed to officiate in each game. He shall:

(a) Enforce the Laws and decide any disputed point. His decision on points of fact connected with the play shall be final so far as the result of the game is concerned. His jurisdiction begins from the time he signals for the kick-off, and his power of penalising shall extend to offences committed when play has been temporarily suspended or when the ball is out of play. He shall, however, refrain from penalising in cases where he is satisfied that by doing so he would be giving an advantage to the offending team.

(b) Keep a record of the game; act as timekeeper and allow the full or agreed time, adding thereto all time lost through accident or other cause.

(c) Have discretionary power to stop the game for any infringement of the Laws and to suspend or terminate the game whenever, by reasons of the elements, interference by spectators, or other cause, he deems such stoppage necessary. In such a case he shall submit a detailed report to the competent authority, within the stipulated time, and in accordance with the provisions set up by the National Association under whose jurisdiction the match was played. Reports will be deemed to be made when received in the ordinary course of post.

(d) Have discretionary power, from the time he enters the field of play, to caution any player guilty of misconduct or ungentlemanly behaviour and, if he persists, to suspend him from further participation in the game. In such cases the Referee shall send the name of the offender to the competent authority, within the stipulated time,* and in accordance with the provisions set up by the National Association under whose jurisdiction the match was played. Reports will be deemed to be made when received in the ordinary course of post.

(e) Allow no person other than the players and Linesmen to enter the field of play without his permission.

* In England, within two days. Sundays not included.

(f) Stop the game if, in his opinion, a player has been seriously injured; have the player removed as soon as possible from the field of play, and immediately resume the game. If a player is slightly injured, the game shall not be stopped until the ball has ceased to be in play. A player who is able to go to the touch- or goal-line for attention of any kind, shall not be treated on the field of play.

(g) Have discretionary power to suspend from further participation in the game, without previous caution, a player guilty of violent conduct.

(h) Signal for recommencement of the game after all stoppages.

(i) Decide that the ball provided for a match meets with the requirements of Law 2.

LAW 6

LINESMEN

Two linesmen shall be appointed, whose duty (subject to the decision of the Referee) shall be to indicate when the ball is out of play and which side is entitled to the corner-kick, goal-kick, or throw-in. They shall also assist the Referee to control the game in accordance with the Laws. In the event of undue interference or improper conduct by a Linesman, the Referee shall dispense with his services and arrange for a substitute to be appointed. (The matter shall be reported by the Referee to the competent authority.) The Linesmen should be equipped with flags by the Club on whose ground the match is played.

LAW 7

DURATION OF THE GAME

The duration of the game shall be two equal periods of 45 minutes, unless otherwise mutually agreed upon, subject to the following:

(a) Allowance shall be made in either period for all time lost through accident or other cause, the amount of which shall be a matter for the discretion of the Referee.

(b) Time shall be extended to permit of a penalty-kick being taken at or after the expiration of the normal period in either half.

At half-time the interval shall not exceed five minutes except by consent of the Referee.

LAW 8

THE START OF PLAY

(a) At the beginning of the game, choice of ends and the kick-off shall be decided by the toss of a coin. The team winning the toss shall have the option of choice of ends or the kick-off.

The Referee, having given a signal, the game shall be started by a player taking a place-kick (i.e., a kick at the ball while it is stationary on the ground in the centre of the field of play) into his opponents' half of the field of play. Every player shall be in his own half of the field and every player of the team opposing that of the kicker shall remain not less than 10 yards from the ball until it is kicked-off; it shall not be deemed in play until it has travelled the distance of its own circumference. The kicker shall not play the ball a second time until it has been touched or played by another player.

(b) After a goal has been scored, the game shall be restarted in like manner by a player of the team losing the goal.

(c) After half-time; when restarting after half-time, ends shall be changed and the kick-off shall be taken by a player of the opposite team to that of the player who started the game.

Punishment. For any infringement of this Law, the kick-off shall be retaken, except in the case of the kicker playing the ball again before it has been touched or played by another player; for this offence, an indirect free-kick shall be taken by a player of the opposing team from the place where the infringement occurred. A goal shall not be scored direct from a kick-off.

(d) After any other temporary suspension; when restarting the game after a temporary suspension of play from any cause not mentioned elsewhere in these Laws, provided that immediately prior to the suspension the ball has not passed over the touch- or goal-lines, the Referee shall drop the ball at the place where it was when play was suspended and it shall be deemed in play when it has touched the ground; if, however, it goes over the touch- or goal-lines after it has been dropped by the Referee, but before it is touched by a player, the Referee shall again drop it. A player shall not play the ball until it has touched the ground. If this section of the Law is not complied with the Referee shall again drop the ball.

LAW 9

BALL IN AND OUT OF PLAY

The ball is out of play:

(a) When it has wholly crossed the goal-line or touch-line, whether on the ground or in the air.

(b) When the game has been stopped by the Referee.

The ball is in play at all other times from the start of the match to the finish including:

(a) If it rebounds from a goal-post, cross-bar or corner-flag post into the field of play.

(b) If it rebounds off either the Referee or Linesmen when they are in the field of play.

(c) In the event of a supposed infringement of the Laws, until a decision is given.

LAW 10

METHOD OF SCORING

Except as otherwise provided by these Laws, a goal is scored when the whole of the ball has passed over the goal-line, between the goal-posts and under the cross-bar, provided it has not been thrown, carried or propelled by hand or arm, by a player of the attacking side, except in the case of a goalkeeper, who is within his own penalty-area.

The team scoring the greater number of goals during a game shall be the winner; if no goals, or any equal number of goals are scored, the game shall be termed a 'draw'.

LAW 11

OFF-SIDE

A player is off-side if he is nearer his opponents' goal-line than the ball at the moment the ball is played unless:

(a) He is in his own half of the field of play.

(b) There are two of his opponents nearer to their own goal-line than he is.

(c) The ball last touched an opponent or was last played by him.

(d) He receives the ball direct from a goal-kick, a corner-kick, a throw-in, or when it was dropped by the Referee.

Punishment. For an infringement of this Law, an indirect free-kick shall be taken by a player of the opposing team from the place where the infringement occurred.

A player in an off-side position shall not be penalised unless, in the opinion of the Referee, he is interfering with the play or with an opponent, or is seeking to gain an advantage by being in an off-side position.

LAW 12

FOULS AND MISCONDUCT

A player who intentionally commits any of the following nine offences:

(a) Kicks or attempts to kick an opponent:

(b) Trips an opponent, i.e., throwing or attempting to throw him by the use of the legs or by stooping in front of or behind him;

(c) Jumps at an opponent;
(d) Charges an opponent in a violent or dangerous manner;
(e) Charges an opponent from behind unless the latter be obstructing;
(f) Strikes or attempts to strike an opponent;
(g) Holds an opponent with his hand or any part of his arm;
(h) Pushes an opponent with his hand or any part of his arm;
(i) Handles the ball, i.e., carries, strikes or propels the ball with his hand or arm. (This does not apply to the goalkeeper within his own penalty-area); shall be penalised by the award of a direct free-kick to be taken by the opposing side from the place where the offence occurred.

Should a player of the defending side intentionally commit one of the above nine offences within the penalty-area he shall be penalised by a penalty-kick.

A penalty-kick can be awarded irrespective of the position of the ball, if in play, at the time an offence within the penalty-area is committed.

A player committing any of the five following offences:

1. Playing in a manner considered by the Referee to be dangerous, e.g., attempting to kick the ball while held by the goalkeeper;
2. Charging fairly, i.e., with the shoulder, when the ball is not within playing distance of the players concerned and they are definitely not trying to play it;
3. When not playing the ball, intentionally obstructing an opponent, i.e., running between the opponent and the ball, or interposing the body so as to form an obstacle to an opponent;
4. Charging the goalkeeper except when he
   (a) is holding the ball;
   (b) is obstructing an opponent;
   (c) has passed outside his goal-area;
5. When playing as goalkeeper
   (a) takes more than 4 steps whilst holding, bouncing or throwing the ball in the air and catching it again without releasing it so that it is played by another player, or
   (b) indulges in tactics which, in the opinion of the Referee, are designed merely to hold up the game and thus waste time and so give an unfair advantage to his own team shall be penalised by the award of an indirect free-kick to be taken by the opposing side from the place where the infringement occurred.

A player shall be cautioned if:

(j) he enters or re-enters the field of play to join or re-join his team after the game has commenced, or leaves the field of play during the progress of the game (except through accident) without, in either case, first having received a signal from the Referee showing him that he may do so. If the Referee stops the game to administer the caution the game shall be restarted by an indirect free-kick taken by a player of the opposing team from the place where the offending player was when the Referee stopped the game. If, however, the offending player has committed a more serious offence he shall be penalised according to that section of the law he infringed.
(k) He persistently infringes the Laws of the Game;
(l) he shows by word or action, dissent from any decision given by the Referee;
(m) he is guilty of ungentlemanly conduct.

For any of these last three offences, in addition to the caution, an indirect free-kick shall also be awarded to the opposing side from the place where the offence occurred.

A player shall be sent off the field of play if:

(n) in the opinion of the Referee, he is guilty of violent conduct or serious foul play;
(o) he uses foul or abusive language;
(p) he persists in misconduct after having received a caution.

If play be stopped by reason of a player being ordered from the field for an offence without a separate breach of the Law having been committed, the game shall be resumed by an indirect free-kick awarded to the opposing side from the place where the infringement occurred.

LAW 13

FREE-KICK

Free-kicks shall be classified under two heads: 'Direct' (from which a goal can be scored direct against the offending side), and 'Indirect' (from which a goal cannot be scored unless the ball has been played or touched by a player other than the kicker before passing through the goal).

When a player is taking a direct or an indirect free-kick inside his own penalty-area, all of the opposing players shall remain outside the area, and shall be at least ten yards from the ball whilst the kick is being taken. The ball shall be in play immediately it has travelled the distance of its own circumference and is beyond the penalty-area. The goalkeeper shall not receive the ball into his hands, in order that he may thereafter kick it into play. If the ball is not kicked direct into play, beyond the penalty-area, the kick shall be retaken.

When a player is taking a direct or an indirect free-kick outside his own penalty-area, all of the opposing players shall be at least ten yards from the ball, until it is in play, unless they are standing on their own goal-line, between the goal-posts. The ball shall be in play when it has travelled the distance of its own circumference.

If a player of the opposing side encroaches into the penalty-area, or within ten yards of the ball, as the case may be, before a free-kick is taken, the Referee shall delay the taking of the kick, until the Law is complied with.

The ball must be stationary when a free-kick is taken, and the kicker shall not play the ball a second time, until it has been touched or played by another player.

Punishment. If the kicker after taking the free-kick plays the ball a second time before it has been touched or played by another player an indirect free-kick shall be taken by a player of the opposing team from the spot where the infringement occurred.

LAW 14

PENALTY-KICK

A penalty-kick shall be taken from the penalty-mark and, when it is being taken, all players with the exception of the player taking the kick, and the opposing goalkeeper, shall be within the field of play but outside the penalty-area, and at least 10 yards from the penalty-mark. The opposing goalkeeper must stand (without moving his feet) on his own goal-line, between the goal-posts, until the ball is kicked. The player taking the kick must kick the ball forward; he shall not play the ball a second time until it has been touched or played by another player. The ball shall be deemed in play directly it is kicked, i.e., travelled the distance of its circumference, and a goal may be scored direct from such a penalty-kick. If the ball touches the goalkeeper before passing between the posts, when a penalty-kick is being taken at or after the expiration of half-time or full-time, it does not nullify a goal. If necessary, time of play shall be extended at half-time or full-time to allow a penalty-kick to be taken.

Punishment. For any infringement of this Law:

(a) by the defending team, the kick shall be retaken if a goal has not resulted;
(b) by the attacking team, other than by the player taking the kick, if a goal is scored it shall be disallowed and the kick retaken.
(c) by the player taking the penalty-kick, committed after the ball is in play, a player of the opposing team shall take an indirect free-kick from the spot where the infringement occurred.

LAW 15

THROW-IN

When the whole of the ball passes over a touch-line, either on the ground or in the air, it shall be thrown in from the point where it crossed the line, in any direction, by a player of the team opposite to that of the player who last touched it. The thrower at the moment of delivering the ball must face the field of play and part of each foot shall be either on the touch-line or on the ground outside the touch-line. The thrower shall use both hands and shall deliver the ball from behind and over his head. The ball shall be in play immediately it enters the field of play, but the thrower shall not again play the ball until it has been touched or played by another player. A goal shall not be scored direct from a throw-in.

Punishment:

(a) If the ball is improperly thrown in the throw-in shall be taken by a player of the opposing team.

(b) If the thrower plays the ball a second time before it has been touched or played by another player, an indirect free-kick shall be taken by a player of the opposing team from the place where the infringement occurred.

LAW 16

GOAL-KICK

When the whole of the ball passes over the goal-line excluding that portion between the goal-posts, either in the air or on the ground, having last been played by one of the attacking team, it shall be kicked direct into play beyond the penalty-area from a point within that half of the goal-area nearest to where it crossed the line, by a player of the defending team. A goalkeeper shall not receive the ball into his hands from a goal-kick in order that he may thereafter kick it into play. If the ball is not kicked beyond the penalty-area, i.e., direct into play, the kick shall be retaken. The kicker shall not play the ball, a second time until it has touched or been played by another player. A goal shall not be scored direct from such a kick. Players of the team opposing that of the player taking the goal-kick shall remain outside the penalty-area whilst the kick is being taken.

Punishment. If a player taking a goal-kick plays the ball a second time after it has passed beyond the penalty-area, but before it has touched or been played by another player, an indirect free-kick shall be awarded to the opposing team, to be taken from the place where the infringement occurred.

CORNER-KICK

When the whole of the ball passes over the goal-line, excluding that portion between the goal-posts, either in the air or on the ground, having last been played by one of the defending team, a member of the attacking team shall kick the ball from within the quarter circle at the nearest corner flag-post, which must not be moved, i.e., a corner-kick. A goal may be scored direct from such a kick. Players of the team opposing that of the player taking the corner-kick shall not approach within 10 yards of the ball until it is in play, i.e., it has travelled the distance of its own circumference, nor shall the kicker play the ball a second time until it has been touched or played by another player.

Punishment. For an infringement of this Law, an indirect free-kick shall be awarded to the opposing team, to be taken from the place where the infringement occurred.

I.P.C. National Press Awards

SPORTS WRITER CATEGORY

Ian Wooldridge, Sports Columnist of the Daily Mail, was chosen as Sports Writer of 1971. This is one of the awards originally instituted in memory of the brilliant journalist, Hannen Swaffer.

Wooldridge entered journalism by the traditional route of working a 168-hour week covering funerals, inquests and magistrates' courts by bicycle for the weekly New Milton Advertiser, in Hampshire.

This early exposure to death convinced him that sportswriting couldn't be worse. He joined the News Chronicle, where he wrote about football and golf, and then moved to the Sunday Dispatch to write a column.

Both newspapers collapsed under him. The Daily Mail, for which he has now worked for 12 years, survives.

After two years of general sports reporting he was appointed cricket correspondent in 1962 and concentrated almost exclusively on the game for the next eight years, touring Australia twice, West Indies, India and South Africa.

In 1964 he had the enervating experience of travelling 32,000 miles in nine weeks to cover five cricket matches in India and one in Australia. All six were drawn.

He became the paper's sports columnist in 1971 with the catholic brief of writing about anything which didn't eventually guarantee a libel action.

For two years he worked as a reporter on the London Weekend TV Sports Arena programme and has more recently reported on television for the BBC.

He has written two books on cricket, broadcast frequently in the World Service of the BBC and has written a number of sports film documentaries.

Married with three sons, his enthusiasms are golf, Beethoven, books, dry martinis, and an extremely private peccadillo, bullfighting.

Previous winners of the Award:

Footballer of the Year

On September 22, 1947, a meeting of British football writers held on board a cross-Channel ship, the day following the international match between Belgium and England, decided to form a Football Writers Association.

Three journalists, Charles Buchan (News Chronicle) Frank Coles (Daily Telegraph) and Roy Peskett (Daily Mail), were asked to draft rules.

A month later, a meeting was held at a Euston hotel, and officials elected. Ivan Sharpe (Sunday Chronicle) was chosen as the first Chairman, and Archie Quick (Army Newspapers), Secretary.

At the Committee meeting which followed, Roy Peskett proposed that an annual award to be called the Footballer of the Year be introduced.

This was seconded by Henry Rose (Daily Express), and carried.

At the end of the 1947–48 season, Stanley Matthews was the first man to receive the award, a statuette of a footballer on a square plinth. This Award, presented at a dinner held in London during Cup Final week, is given, in the words thought of by Charles Buchan:

'To the Player, who by precept and example on and off the field, shall have been considered to have done most for football during that season.'

The election is made on a voting system among the members of the Football Writers Association. Three men, Stanley Matthews, Tom Finney and Danny Blanchflower, have each won a trophy twice.

From time to time, the Committee of the F.W.A. make an additional award to an individual or to a club, for meritorious services to the game.

Gordon Banks, Stoke and England goalkeeper, was voted Footballer of the Year for 1972 by the Football Writers Association. It was a deserved tribute, for Banks, still considered the world's greatest 'keeper, was the inspiration behind Stoke's successful bid to win the Football League Cup, the club's first-ever honour.

Second was Johnny Giles of Leeds United. And third place went to Banks' Stoke team-mate George Eastham, who scored the winner in the League Cup final against Chelsea.

Pools Section

by Bob Baily (Sunday Mirror)

WIN A FORTUNE WITH THE ROTHMANS PLAN

Here is an exciting new way for readers of the Rothmans Football Yearbook to hit the pools jackpot and win that fabulous £500,000 treble chance fortune.

It is the ROTHMANS PLAN, which is being launched for the first time for the 1972–73 football season. The system has been registered as a plan-type entry with all members of the Pool Promoters Association, namely Littlewoods, Vernons, Copes, Empire, Zetters and Soccer. On all those coupons the ROTHMANS PLAN will be accepted as a single-line entry.

The plan has all the qualities necessary to line up those elusive Xs because it carries a guarantee that leaves very little to chance.

It covers twelve selections for the 8-match treble chance in only 136 lines, compared with 495 lines required for the full perm of any 8 from 12. At two lines a penny it costs only 68p, as against £2·47½ for full cover.

Yet the guarantees for the ROTHMANS PLAN are almost equal to that of the full perm. There are two basic guarantees, which are:

(1) If any seven of the twelve selections result as score-draws ALL SEVEN will fall together in one line.

(2) If any nine of the twelve selections result as score-draws EIGHT will fall together in one line.

So if you include seven or more score-draws in your selections you must win. With seven score-draws you will win either a second, third or fourth dividend, depending on the result of the other match in your best line, and with nine score-draws in the selections you must win a top dividend.

The method of entry is simple. All you have to do is select ANY twelve matches on the coupon mark X against each one, then write these instructions alongside:

Rothmans Plan – 136 cols. @ ½p = 68p.

That's all you have to do, and you can see how it should appear on the coupon in Diagram 1 which is designed for Littlewoods 2-line-a-penny treble chance pool.

All 136 lines covered in the system are set out in the checking chart, shown on page 962, and the results of your twelve selections must be checked against this chart. Simply mark the results of the matches covered against Nos. 1 to 12 in all sections of the chart, then count up the number of points scored by the eight Xs in each line.

Remember to count 3 points for a score-draw, 2 for a goal-less game, 1½ for an away win or void match and 1 point for a home win.

On coupons that allow lower stakes the ROTHMANS PLAN will give excellent cover if used in multiple form. Diagram 2 shows an example of an entry suitable for Vernons where the minimum stake is 8 lines a penny.

Eighteen selections are covered in this entry and they are divided into three groups of six matches. The ROTHMANS PLAN is then applied to any two of the three groups, like this: groups 1 and 2; groups 1 and 3; groups 2 and 3.

With three separate combinations, the multiple entry amounts to 136 × 3 = 408 lines, costing 51p at 8 lines a penny.

The guarantee will apply to the twelve matches covered by any two groups in this entry and the groups must be taken two at a time and checked against the check chart.

First, mark the results of the first group against Nos. 1 to 6 in the chart and the results of the second group against Nos. 7 to 12. Each complete line in the chart must then be checked separately. Next, repeat the procedure with groups 1 and 3 and groups 2 and 3.

That will give you a complete check of the multiple entry, but remember that it is necessary to check only the combinations of two groups which contain enough draws for a dividend.

On coupons that allow stakes for 16 and 20 lines a penny it is possible to cover 24 selections with the 6-in-1 entry shown in Diagram 3.

The 24 matches are divided into four groups of six and the ROTHMANS PLAN is applied to any two groups. This makes a total entry of 136 × 6 = 816 lines, costing 51p at 16 lines a penny and 40½ at 20 a penny. Be sure to use the correct stakes according to the limit on your coupon.

Again, the results of any two groups of six matches must be checked against the check chart. The six combinations involved are: groups 1 and 2; groups 1 and 3; groups 1 and 4; groups 2 and 3; groups 2 and 4; groups 3 and 4.

(The above instructions must be written alongside your entry)

Although the diagrams have been designed for specific coupons, each example can be used on ANY coupon, provided you use the correct stakes. The cost of each entry on all coupons is as follows:

	Diagram 1	Diagram 2	Diagram 3
Littlewoods (½p)	68p	£2·04	£4·08
Vernons (½p)	17p	51p	£1·02
Copes & Empire (1/16p)	8½p	25½p	51p
Zetters & Soccer (1/20p)	6½p	20p	40½p

The stakes have been rounded down to the nearest half new penny, as permitted by the rules. Just pick the entry that suits your pocket best and send it in to the coupon of your choice.

So there it is, the ROTHMANS PLAN, and let's hope it puts a pools fortune in your pocket this season. The best of luck to you all.

HOW DIVIDENDS REACHED HALF A MILLION

The following chart shows how Littlewoods treble chance jackpot soared to the first half-million pound pay-out in Mareh 1972.

The first ever pools half-millionaire was Mr. Cyril Grimes, of Liss, Hampshire, who collected £512,683 on March 4, and the very next week a London syndicate shared the world record pay-out of £527,499.

FULL PERM STAKING CHARTS

The following chart shows the number of lines required to cover from 2 to 8 matches (also pairs or groups) from up to 20 selections.

To find the number of lines for any particular entry, refer to the first column which shows the total number of selections you wish to cover. Next, read across to the column which shows the number of forecasts required in each line. Where the two meet is shown the number of lines required for the perm.

Thus, to cover 11 selections for the 4 Draws pool takes 330 lines. Similarly, to cover 13 selections for the 8-match treble chance takes 1,287 lines.

HOW MUCH WILL IT COST?

The following chart tells you at a glance how much a full perm will cost. It shows the exact stakes required to cover up to 20 selections on the 8-match treble chance on all leading coupons.

In some cases the cost has been rounded down to the nearest half new penny, as permitted by the pools, but the stakes shown will not necessarily apply if more than one entry of any particular full perm is used. In this case, the total number of lines for the multiple entry must be calculated then, if necessary, rounded down to the nearest half new penny.
